P R E F A C E .

There is scarcely anything of so much importance to a community as a suitable SPELLING BOOK ; it exerts an influence peculiarly its own, whether in regard to first impressions, or the formation of character and conduct. The sentiments acquired at school are generally retained through life.

During a residence of nearly twenty years in Canada, the compiler of the following pages often had occasion to notice the great diversity of elementary books in use, and how exceedingly inappropriate many of them were to the object for which they were professedly designed. At the present time this diversity is not diminished ; and it cannot be denied, that, in different sections of the country, those of the United States origin are the most numerous. While spelling books from England are to us necessarily defective, not being suited to our scenery and other localities, those of a foreign origin are liable to more serious objections.

It is very generally acknowledged, that our system of popular instruction is exceedingly inefficient ; but were it otherwise, the evil alluded to is one of great magnitude, and is, in itself, sufficient to excite regret in the mind of every individual possessed of any degree of true patriotism.

Since no person more competent to the task has stepped forward to apply a remedy, it has been the object of the compiler to do so in the succeeding pages. In pursuit of this object—in addition to lessons written expressly—he has availed himself of every assistance within his reach. Nor has he forgotten that Education, unconnected with Religion, is vain, if not injurious ; he has, therefore, been particularly careful to introduce each reading lesson as will subserve the interests of religion and morality, by directing the young mind to the great Author of all existence, and to consider itself destined to be an heir of immortality.

ADVERTISEMENT.

THE present publishers of this already popular School Book have lately purchased the Copy Right; and, in future, the work will be published in their own name and behalf. Arrangements are made to make the price much less; which, together with the many very valuable testimonials given as to the worth and utility of the Book, it is hoped, will induce a more extensive and general use of it throughout the Province.

BRIEF INTRODUCTORY REMARKS,

CONCERNING THE LETTERS OF THE ENGLISH ALPHABET.

In the English Alphabet there are twenty-six letters, viz. : A, b, c, d, e, f, g, h, i, j, k, l, m, n, o, p, q, r, s, t, u, v, w, x, y, z. A, e, i, o, u, and sometimes w and y, are vowels. B, c, d, f, g, h, k, l, m, n, p, q, r, s, t, v, x, z, and sometimes w and y, are consonants. W and y are vowels when ending a syllable, but when beginning a syllable they are consonants.

Each of the vowels, with the exception of w, has several distinct sounds, which may be thus exhibited, viz. :

Vowels.	1st sound.	2d sound.	3d sound.	4th sound.
a	at	ale	all	ask
e	met	devout	me	—
i	give	wine	—	—
o	hot	vote	lose	—
u	hut	push	cube	—
y	truly	'ry	—	—

A consonant has no sound by itself, and always requires the assistance of a vowel. B, when thus associated, has only one sound, but it is often silent : it is always so when followed by t in the same syllable, as in debt, and generally so when preceded by m, as in thumb.

C always takes the sound of either k or s ; of the former before a, o and u ; as in cut, cot, cut ; of the latter before e, i and y ; as cell, city, cygnet. Sometimes it is silent, as in the word indict.

D keeps always the same sound ; as in death, draw, bind.

F has only one sound, as in life ; except in the participle of, where it has the power of v, in order to distinguish it from the word off.

G before a, o and u, is sounded hard ; as in garland, goblet, gunner. Before e, i and y, it is sounded sometimes hard, and sometimes soft ; as in gelding hard, and in gender soft ; but for the most part it is soft. It is often silent, as in feign, phlegm.

H cannot properly be considered as merely a mark of aspiration In most cases, it has a distinct sound, as heard in the words hat, horse, hill. It is always silent after r, as in rheum.—Some persons are very erroneous in the use of this letter, by omitting to sound it where it is necessary, and by giving it a distinct utterance where it is absolutely improper. For instance, some pronounce air hair, and heart art.

J marks a compound sound, composed of d and gh or the soft g, as in gesture, except in hallelujah, where it is pronounced like y, viz.: halleluoyah.

K has one sound, represented also by hard c; as king, come. Before n it is always silent; as in knot, know.

L has only one sound; as in love. It is sometimes silent when followed by f, k or m; as in half, stalk, balm.

M is uniform in its sound; as in music, except in comptroller, pronounced controller.

N has two sounds; one as in man, the other like ng, as in thank, &c. It is always mute when preceded by m in the same syllable; as in condemn.

P has one uniform sound; as in pride but when joined to an h, it sounds like f, as in phantom. In nephew and Stephen, it has the sound of v. It is sometimes mute, as in psalm.

Q sounds like k, and is never silent.

R is never mute, and has only one sound; as in barter.

S has four sounds; as in so, rose, passion, osier.

T has its own proper sound; as in hurt, tune.

V is never silent, and has one uniform sound; as vain, vanity, love.

W has also one sound; as in will, well.

X is the representative of two sounds—it is sounded like z at the beginning of Greek names; as in Xerxes: but in other words like ks, as in vex.

Y, when a consonant, has nearly the sound of ee; as in York.

Z represents two sounds, one peculiar to itself; as in razor; the other like zh, as in azure.

A diphthong is the union of two vowels in one syllable; as ea in beat.

A triphthong is the union of three vowels in one syllable; as eau in beau.

A syllable is the complete sound of one or more letters; as I, am, art.

A monosyllable is a word of one syllable.

A dissyllable is a word of two syllables.

A trisyllable is a word of three syllables.

A polysyllable is a word of four or more syllables.

Accent signifies a certain stress of the voice which is placed on one syllable by way of distinction: thus, in the word Kingston, the accent is on the first syllable, but in Q uebec it is on the second.

ORTHOGRAPHY is the art of spelling words with the proper and necessary letters; and the best mode of learning it is, by reading and copying a great deal, and by never spelling a single word unless you are certain what letters you are to use; for which purpose you will refer to your dictionary, or to your teacher. Nothing is more essential to a good education, and every one should make himself master of it. Bad spelling is either a proof of great ignorance or carelessness.

A good articulation consists in giving to every letter in a syllable its due quality and proportion of sound, according to the most approved custom of pronouncing it; and in so uttering the syllables of which words are composed, that the ear shall, without difficulty, distinguish their number. In so far as these points are not observed, the articulation is defective.

Distinctness of articulation depends primarily upon being able to enunciate the sounds of the letters by the organs of speech, and distinctly combining them into syllables and words: and, in the next place, in distinguishing properly the syllables of which words are composed from each other.

The chief cause of indistinctness, is a too great pre-rapidity of utterance. To cure this, the most effectual method will be, to employ an hour every day in reading aloud, in a manner much slower than is necessary, and before some person whose kindness would correct the habitual errors of the reader.

There is one cause of indistinct articulation which operates very generally, and which arises from the very genius of our tongue ; so that unless great care be taken, it is scarcely possible to escape being affected by it. Every word in our language, composed of more syllables than one, has one syllable accented, and is thus particularly distinguished from the rest ; and if this accented syllable be properly articulated, the word will be sufficiently known, even though the others should be sounded very confusedly. This produces a negligence with regard to the pronunciation of the other syllables, which, though it may not render the sense obscure, yet destroys all measure and proportion, and consequently all harmony in delivery. This fault may be corrected by pronouncing the unaccented syllables more fully than is necessary.

OF PUNCTUATION.

Punctuation is the art of using certain points or stops, so as to mark the several pauses in reading, and the sense in writing.

The several points and stops are, a comma, marked thus, (,) a semicolon thus, (;) a colon thus, (:) a period or full stop, thus, (.) a note of interrogation, thus, (?) a note of admiration, thus, (!)

You must stop at a comma, while you can count one ; at a semicolon two ; at a colon three ; at a period four , at a note of interrogation four, and at a note of admiration four.

A period marks a complete sentence ; a colon, the chief member of a complete sentence ; a semicolon, a half member ; a comma, a subdivided half member : a note of interrogation indicates that a question is asked ; and a note of admiration implies sudden emotion of the mind.

Bid him get my hat.	Let it now run out.
Put it on the peg.	Be not a bad boy.
Let me get a nap.	Do not tell a lie.

LESSON 9.

I can not see God, but God can see me :
 For the eye of God is on me all the day ;
 And God can see me now, and all I do.

LESSON 10.

All who sin and do ill, go in a bad way.
 Let me not go in sin, and do ill :
 For if I do ill I can not go to God.

LESSON 11.

No man can do as God can do.
 The way of man is not as the way of God.
 Let me not go out of thy way, O God !

LESSON 12.

Do you ask if you are to die?
 Yes, you and I are to die, and so are all men.
 But a bad boy can not go to God.

LESSON 13.

O let me not sin in all I say or do.
 If I see a boy do ill, let me not do so too:
 For if I do so too, I am as bad as he.

READING LESSONS NOT EXCEEDING FOUR LETTERS.

LESSON 14.

The sun is up, it is time to rise,
 Get out of bed. Now pray to God.
 Then wash your face, and comb your hair.
 Be a good boy, and do as you are bid.
 The Lord will keep them safe that pray to him.
 He is nigh to all that call on his name.

LESSON 15.

The Lord can tell what is best for you.
 He will do you good if you love his ways.
 If a man love God he will keep his laws.
 Take care what you say lest you tell a lie.
 He that lies will do many bad acts.
 Look at them who do well and do so too.
 Be sure to mind them that do well.
 But keep from all who do ill.

LESSON 16.

Let us love the Lord our God with our souls.
 For he is kind to us and does us good.
 Take care that you mean what you say to God.
 And do not mock him when you sing or pray.
 Know that if you mock God he must see it.
 If the Lord keep us we need fear no harm.

We are sure to be safe if God take care of us.
 Know that the Lord who made the eye can see.
 And he who made the ear can hear.
 The eye of God is on all them that do ill.

LESSON 17.

Be sure to help the poor and such as are in need.
 Let them not want aid when you can help.
 Mind what you read that you may grow wise.
 What we know now will be of use to us when old.
 He will not be wise who does not mind his book.
 We must make the best use of our time.
 When this day is past it will come no more.
 Let not an hour slip, you have no time to lose.

LESSON 18.

If boys that sit near you talk to you, mind them not.
 Let them by that see that you love your book.
 If you love your book do not look off from it.
 Read with care and mind what is said.
 When any one says he does not care,
 What hope can we have that he will mend.
 You must not tell lies in play, for it is sin.
 Be sure all you say is true. 'The eye of God is upon you.'

READING LESSONS OF A RURAL NATURE.

SPRING.

LESSON 19

The snow will soon be all gone.
 The frost is yet in the ground.
 The sap runs from the trees.
 Boys ought to work while it runs
 Fix that trough or pail right.
 Do not lose any of the sap.
 How pure and sweet it is.
 See where the men boil it.
 Take care not to set your clothes on fire.
 That might cause your death.

LESSON 20.

The spring birds are come ! hark, how they sing.
 The wild leeks are quite green,
 And the ox and cow feed on them.
 The lambs play in the field.
 The trees and shrubs have now large buds.
 Which will soon spread out into leaves.
 The woods look green and gay.
 How great and good must God be,
 Who makes the earth and all things glad.

LESSON 21.

We hear God's voice in the clouds.
 O ! What a clear flash of light.

Boys and girls ought to be good.
The rain comes down in large drops.
It now clears up and is fine.
Look at God's bow in the clouds.
Its ends seem to touch the earth.
The men are out at the plough.
They sing whilst they turn up the mould.
The seed is cast with care on the ground,
We hope it will grow, and yield a good crop.

LESSON 22.

You ought to dig and rake that bed.
Still let your vines face the sun.
Take care of them when they come up.
There might be some frost at night.
Take the hoe in your hand and work.
Let no weeds grow on the walks,
Pull all you see out of the beds.
Mind that your fence is good and strong.
Do not work too long at once.
You have your task yet to learn,
And you might be late at school.

SUMMER.

LESSON 23.

How fine and clear the morn is.
The birds sing in the trees.
There is one which is quite red.
The cold dews have left the earth.

Now the bright sun darts his beams,
The flocks and herds seek the cool shade.
The birds hide from the great heat.
The fruit trees are now in bloom.
The meads are thick with grass.
See how the scythe cuts it down.
The hay smells very sweet.
We ought to help to make it, if we have time.

LESSON 24.

See the corn how tall and green it is.
The wheat and oats wave in the wind.
The sun is hot, but there is a fine breeze.
The fruit will soon be ripe.
You must not eat green fruit.
The barge skims down the stream.
Sweet sounds float on the air.
The oars beat time to the sounds.
Let us take a walk near the shore,
And view the boats on the great lake.
We will now rest in the shade of the oak.
Then we will go home through the grove.

AUTUMN.

LESSON 25.

The fruit is now soft and ripe.
You may take some and eat.
But do not eat too much.

In that field there is wheat cut down.
Bread is made from wheat.
You should not waste your bread,
For some poor boy may be in want.
God makes the wheat and corn grow,
And gives us all that we need.
We ought to pray in our hearts to God,
And thank him for our life and all things.

LESSON 26.

The cart groans with the load.
The barns are full of wheat,
And hay stacks swell the store.
See the logs in heaps on the new ground.
Now they are all set on fire.
The fire might catch your clothes.
How soon the trees are all gone.
The stumps are yet in the ground,
But they will come out in a few years.
Men do not plough new ground.
They drag in the wheat with a team.
Now they fence it with oak rails.

WINTER.

LESSON 27.

There are now no leaves on the trees,
And the birds no more cheer us.
The cold hand of the north has bound the earth

The streams and small lakes feel his chain.
 See the boys slide, and the men skate.
 Charles may learn next year.
 There has been a great fall of snow.
 Will you take a ride in the sleigh?
 Come Charles, call Jane and Ann.
 Where are your hats and coats and cloaks.
 We shall be home at noon.

LESSON 28.

It is a cold night—it snows.
 Ring the bell. John make a good fire.
 Draw down the blinds—shut to the doors.
 Come in and take your seats.
 Now what are we all to do?
 Why sing a psalm or hymn,
 Or play your tunes, draw out your maps,
 Or dress your dolls, or what you will till tea.
 Then James I shall have a new book for you,
 And we will get you to read it to us.
 The air is quite keen—there will be two or three cold nights,
 And then it will be mild. God is wise and good:
 And small things, as well as great, shew His skill.

What's right and good,	Give thanks to thee
Now shew me Lord;	Who still dost raise
And lead me by	Up men to teach
Thy grace and word.	Us thy just ways.
Thus shall I be	While thus my mind
A child of God,	Is bent and mov'd,
And love and fear	I may be sure
Thy hand and rod.	By thee I'm lov'd.
Then shall I learn	And when I die
To bless and prize	Shall go in peace
All those that strive	To sing thy praise,
To make me wise.	Which shall not cease

O ! make me one
Of that bless'd train,
And tune my voice
To that sweet strain.

PART II.

SPELLING LESSONS OF TWO SYLLABLES

ACCENTED ON THE FIRST.

NOTE.—Figures and Italics, for the purpose of directing the pronunciation, are avoided—experience having shewn that they only tend to embarrass the learner.

The syllables are divided more with a regard to proper pronunciation, than to arbitrary rules, which are above the comprehension of children.

READING LESSONS IN WORDS NOT EXCEEDING TWO SYLLABLES

LESSON 1.

A lone-ly hut.	A fros-ty night.
A love-ly seat.	A gen-tle rain.
A fer-tile vale.	A whist-ling wind
A fruit-ful field.	A beat-ing storm.
A ver-dant lawn.	A lof-ty spire.
A sil-ver stream.	A bar-ren waste.
A wind-ing brook.	A large gar-den.
The bi-ting frost.

LESSON 2.

A leaf-y grove.	A sul-try day.
A glas-sy lake.	The ri-sing hill.
A rap-id riv-er.	The dri-ving sleet.
The bit-ter blasts.	A heav-y show-er.
A dew-y morn.	A strong gale.
A howl-ing tem-pest.	A pure foun-tain.

A no-ble man-sion.
 A hil-ly coun-try.
 The ru-ral walk.
 A fine or-chard
 A rich pas-ture.

A swell-ing tor-rent.
 The blight-ing winds.
 The fra-grant flow-ers.
 The sab-bath bell.

LESSON 3.

A cool-ing breeze.
 A win-ter's eve.
 A fine night.
 An a-ged oak.
 A hard win-ter.
 The lof-ty pine.
 The bleat-ing sheep.
 The din-ner horn.
 A sum-mer morn.
 A gloo-my day.
 A pleas-ant ride.
 The scent-ed herbs.

The low-ing kine.
 The wind-ing path.
 The hol-low tree.
 The fruit-ful field.
 The lof-ty hill.
 A love-ly jaunt.
 A fine pros-pect.
 The red squir-rel.
 An A-pril show-er.
 A cloud-less sky.
 A weep-ing wil-low.
 A fruit-ful au-tumn.

THE COW, &c.

NOTE.—Some teachers, in order to excite emulation, put their scholars to ead in classes; and, for the convenience of such, the following Lessons are di-vided by figures into sma'l portions.

LESSON 4.

1. If you are ver-y good, and say your les-sons well this morn-ing, we will, if it keeps fine, go in-to the gar-den, where you shall help me to sow some flow-er seeds, and look at the man who is work-ing there.

2. You can al-so look at the cook, who is get-ting peas for your din-ner, which you, and your Broth-ers and sis-ters are ve-ry fond of.

3. The cher-ries be-gin to look ve-ry red, and will soon be ripe e-nough to mix with the cur-raints, when they will make nice tarts for sup-per, with a lit-tle new milk from the Cow, from whom we may have ma-n-y good things; fresh milk, rich cream, nice but-ter and cheese.

4. Cus-tards, and most kinds of pud-dings, are made with milk; I can-not tell what chil-dren would do for prop-er food, if we had not Cow's milk.

5. Last sum-mer, you knöw, how pleas-ed you were to see the li-tle calves play-ing a-bout in the fields with their moth-ers, though you thought, when you saw them go to take their moth-ers' milk, they would not leave you a-n-y sup-per.

6. But, my dear, the good God who gave the beasts of the field for our use, also gave them the means to nour-ish their young, and yet have e-nough to spare for the use of man.

7. He who has made noth-ing in vain, took care to pro-vide well for both man and beast; for when the calf is old e-nough to feed on the grass, it does not want so much of its moth-er's milk.

8. The calf has no wool on, like the sheep, but the skin is of great use, and made in-to leath-er, of which shoes are made, bind-ings for books and oth-er things; so you find the poor beasts are of use e-ven af-ter they are dead, for ma-n-y of them give us both food and rai-ment.

9. Farm-ers should use their cat-tle kind-ly, for I do not know how they could do with-out them in the cul-ture of their farms, or find food for their wives and chil-dren. You will find dai-ly, as you read, that all God's works are good, and noth-ing is made in vain.

THE BEES, &c.

LESSON 5.

1. I was glad to see you, my dear girl, so much pleas-ed last night with the good farm-er, and his daugh-ter who gave you such nice fruit and new milk. How sweet it seem-ed af-ter your walk, to sit down and en-joy such a sum-mer re-past.

2. While the weath-er is fine, we will of-ten, af-ter you have read your book, and done well at your nee-dle, go and see Miss May, who keeps her fath-er's house, and tends the poul-try.

3. You know she told you she would give you a pair of pret-ty chick-ens, and I will buy two or three more, then you shall feed and take care of them at home.

4. She also told you she would shew you the bees tne next time you went, and you should, at the prop-er sea-son, see them take a hive. What a pit-y it is, that for the sake of their hon-ey, ma-ny of the poor bees are kill-ed, af-ter they have work-ed so hard, and toil-ed so long, to cull the sweets from flow-ers and herbs.

5. Poor things, it is hard that a-ny of them should suf-fer for giv-ing such rich and use-ful food for man. Some years a-go, al-most all the bees in a hive were kill-ed, when it was to be ta-ken for the sake of the hon-ey.

6. But of late years, a meth-od has been found of ta-king the hon-ey from the hives, with-out caus-ing the death of so ma-ny use-ful in-sects which may live to gath-er more sweets, and take to some oth-er hive.

7. You must be care-ful when you go near where bee-hives are, for, if you play a-bout and trou-ble the bees, as they go in and out, they will sting you, and their sting is near-ly as bad as that of a wasp ; and I sup-pose you will not soon for-get the wasp which stung you the oth-er day.

THE FARM YARD.

LESSON 6.

1. When we were walk-ing late-ly, you seem-ed ve-ry much to ad-mire the nice pea-cock which was spread-ing its gau-dy tail to the sun.

2. It look-ed ve-ry hand-some, but you must not be taken with out-side beau-ty, for were you to hear it scream, you would won-der so pret-ty a bird could make so harsh a noise.

3. The ducks, the geese, and the chick-ens, are all much bet-ter to eat than that fine bird which walks a-bout the yard so proud-ly ; some-times the pea-chicks are kill-ed when young, but they are not so white and sweet as a chick-en.

4. The com-mon farm-yard poul-try, though not so hand-some to look at, are far more use-ful, as we are of-ten pleas-ed with a few fresh eggs at break-fast. Lit-tle boys and girls would of-ten be with-out pud-dings for their din-ners, if the hens did not fur-nish plen-ty of eggs.

5. It is ve-ry pleas-ant to see a yard full of fine poultry, the hens with their chick-ens, al-ways seen so bu-sy scratch-ing a-bout for lit-tle grubs and in-sects, which they are ve-ry fond of.

6. The ducks are not hap-py un-less they have a pond near, where they may swim a-bout, and dive in the wa-ter for the in-sects they like best. It is ve-ry pleas-ing to watch them, and see how mer-ry they seem, and hear what a quack-ing they make, if they hap-pen to find a-n-y fly or weed that pleas-es them.

7. The geese most-ly ram-ble out on the com-mon, if there is one near, but they come home with their gos-lings at night to the yard, where they know they shall get a good sup-per, and be safe du-ring the night.

8. Thus you find that all birds and beasts soon know where they are well ta-ken care of and fed; and though ma-n-y are kill-ed to sup-ply the wants of man, yet such as es-cape are, or ought to be, well fed and kept warm.

OF FISHES, &c.

LESSON 7.

1. When we were talk-ing the oth-er day, a-bout the pret-ty lambs and birds, you ask-ed me where the fish-es liv-ed, and want-ed to know how they walk-ed, as you could not see a-n-y legs they had got.

2. But though they do not walk, they can move a-bout ve-ry quick-ly, which is call-ed swim-ming, and the lit-tle fins you ob-serve as-sist them in get-ting for-ward through the wa-ter.

3. Some fish live in ponds, some in riv-ers, oth-ers in lakes, but the great-est num-ber of fish is in the sea; all which you may read of, when you are a-ble to tell all the large words you will meet with.

4. Then you will read with sur-prise and won-der a-bout the great whales, how men go a great dis-tance in ships to catch them, and what a la-bour and trou-ble it is to take them; but the oil they yield well re-pays the peo-ple who are at the ex-pence of send-ing men so far.

5. There are a great ma-ny fish in the sea fit to eat, the ta-king of which em-ploys a large num-ber of peo-ple who go out in boats, and ve-ry of-ten they are in their boats on the wa-ter all night. The peo-ple who live by fish-ing most-ly have their hou-ses near the sea-side, and when they can-not ven-ture out to sea they em-ploy their time in mend-ing their nets.

6. You will be great-ly pleas-ed when you can read the ac-count of all the fish-es, birds and beasts, that are in your sis-ter's book. You shall read it as soon as you can.

7. No per-son can tell what he is read-ing a-bout if he can-not say the words in a prop-er man-ner; there-fore be care-ful and at-tend to your book. Pro-nounce your let-ters right, and you will soon be a-ble to read in books tha will both a-muse and in-struct you.

THE SQUIRREL.

LESSON 3.

1. You must take great care of the pret-ty lit-tle squir-rel which you have got as a pre-sent, and be sure to feed it ev-e-ry day. It loves nuts, and will crack them as well as you can, and, with its lit-tle paws pick them out ve-ry neat-ly.

2. You know squir-rels love to be in the woods, where some of them skip from tree to tree as live-ly as birds. In this coun-try there are ma-ny sorts, such as the fly-ing squir-rel, the ground squir-rel, al-so the red, grey, and black.

3. In Eng-land there are on-ly the red and grey, both of which are ve-ry pret-ty, and have fine bush-y tails which turn o-ver their backs, and when they sit up-on their hind legs, ap-pear o-ver their heads.

4. If you no-tice the lit-tle crea-ture when it eats, you will see how pret-ty it looks; but you must take care, for it will bite: its teeth are ve-ry sharp, or it could not, with so much ease, crack the nuts.

5. Some peo-ple put their squir-rels in a cage that keeps turn-ing round, so the poor thing is al-ways climb-ing but nev-or gets a-ny high-er; it is hard to tor-ment it in such a way, and I do not think there can be a-ny pleas-ure in look-ing at an ob-ject which is al-ways mo-ving in vain. Yet, some de-gree of mo-tion would tend to keep the squir-rel in health.

THE LAMBS, &c.

LESSON 9.

1. You ask-ed me to tell you a-bout the pret-ty lambs you saw frisk-ing in the fields, when you were out with your nurse for a walk. They look-ed so gen-tle and harm-less you want-ed me to get you one to play with at home.

2. But that would not be do-ing a kind-ness to the poor crea-ture, for it would soon grow too big to have in the ouse, and then it would have to be kill-ed. Lit-tle lambs when they grow up will be great sheep, and sheep the butch-ers kill for us to eat, and the flesh is call-ed mut-ton.

3. It may seem er-ror to you that such pret-ty crea-tures as the sheep and lambs are, should be kill-ed for man's use, yet the great and good God gave them for our food. Were they all to live, there would not be grass e-nough to feed them, so when they are fat they are slain : their flesh is eat-en, their skin dress-ed and made into parch-ment for the law-yers to write on, and for ma-n-y oth-er u-ses.

4. Of the lamb's skin, which is thin-ner and soft er, la-dies' gloves are made; and it is of-ten u-sed in-stead of kid skins for the up-per part of la-dies' and chil-dren's shoes. The wool of both is card-ed, spun, and wo-ven in-to ma-n-y sorts of use-ful clo-thing; some wove in-to broad-cloth, stuffs, blank-ets, flan-nels and a great ma-n-y things, to clothe and keep warm the hu-man race, who must a' low the poor sheep to be one of the most use-ful of crea-tures.

5. A great num-ber of socks are al-so made of wool, as are car-pets, and a great deal of wool is spun ve-ry fine for la-dies' work. Your sis-ter, you know, late-ly work-ed the pret-ty rug we have for the tea-urn, and the great rug on the draw-ing room hearth; all the fine wor-sted she u-sed while work-ing them, was made from the wool of the sheep dy-ed to the col-ours want-ed.

THE SHEEP.

LESSON 10.

- . Laz-y sheep, pray tell me why
 In the pleas-ant fields you lie,
 Eat-ing grass, and dai-sies white,
 From the morn-ing till the night?
 Ev'ry thing can some-thing do.
 But tell me of what use are you?

2. Nay, my lit-tle mas-ter, nay,
Do not serve me so, I pray ;
Don't you see the wool that grows
On my back, to make you clothes ?
Cold, and ve-ry cold you'd get,
If I did not give you it.

3. True, it seems a pleas-ant thing,
To nip the dai-sies in the spring ;
But ma-n-y chil-ly nights I pass
On the cold, and dew-y grass,
Or pick a scan-ty din-ner where
All the com-mon's brown and bare.

4. Then the farm-er comes at last
When the mer-ry spring is past,
And cuts my wool-ly coat a-way
To warm you in the win-ter's day ;
Lit-tle mas-ter, this is why
In the pleas-ant fields I lie.

INSTRUCTIVE LESSONS IN WORDS NOT EXCEEDING THREE SYLLABLES.

OF OUR CREATOR, &c.

LESSON 21.

1. Our pa-rents are very good to us, but God is bet-ter than our pa-rents, and he has done more for us. He gave us our pa-rents and ev-e-ry thing we have.

2. He made the sun, moon, and stars; the earth, and the sky; wa-ter, trees and flow-ers; birds and beasts, fish-es and in-septs; and men, wo-men and chil-dren.

3. He has made us more ex-cel-lent than the beasts, for he has giv-en us a soul. It is our soul that knows God, and that he is good, and wise, and pow-er-ful. The beasts do not know God, nor the things which he has made; if we were to tell them, they would not un-der-stand us.

4. Our souls learn and know a great ma-ny things which the beasts can-not learn. Our bo-dies will die, and when we are laid in the grave, worms will de-stroy our flesh, and our bones will crum-ble into dust. But our souls are im-mor-tal, they can nev-er die.

5. God or-ders ev-e-ry thing. He keeps us a-live, and he makes us die when he pleas-es. There is noth-ing which he can-not do. He sees us where-e-ver we are, by night as well as by day; and he knows all that we do and say and think. There is noth-ing which he does not know.

THE BIBLE, &c.

LESSON 12.

1. We must love to read the bi-ble; it is the most ex-cel-lent and beau-ti-ful of all books.—God him-self com-mand-ed good men to write it. There we read of all the great and good things God has done for us, and for all peo-ple; how just, and wise, and pow-er-ful he is; and what we must do to serve and please him.

2. There too we read of Christ, the Son of God, who came in-to the world to save sin-ners, such as we all are by na-ture and prac-tice. — He was gen-tle and pa-tient when he was trou-bled and ill-used; he was kind to all per-sons, e-ven to them who were un-kind to him; and when wick-ed men were just go-ing to kill him, he pray-ed to his Fath-er to for-give them.

3. When we have read, or heard a-bout Christ, who he was, and what great things he has done for us, we ought to love him, and be thank-ful to him, and try to be like him.

4. Make haste to learn to read, and try to un-der-stand the mean-ing of what you read; love to learn your du-ty and to do it; then you will be a-ble to read the bi-ble, and you will love to read it. There are ma-n-y things in it which you can un-der-stand now, though you are so young. When you are old-er and wi-ser you will un-der-stand it bet-ter; and, if you are good, you will de-light in it more and more.

DISOBEDIENCE.

LESSON 13.

1. Chil-dren should al-ways do what their pa-rents or teach-ers de-sire them; nei-ther should they re-fuse till they have rea-son from them for what they are bid, be-cause, it may not be at all times pro-per to give a rea-son, and they might not un-der-stand it, if it were giv-en.

2. Ed-mund Wil-ful was no-ted for not do-ing as his pa-rents told him; when his fath-er and moth-er told him not to do a-ny thing, he did not mind their com-mands, but would do it ve-ry soon af-ter; be-sides this, he al-ways want-ed to know the rea-son why he was not to do it. We shall soon see what be-fel him from his not mind-ing what was said to him.

3. One fros-ty morn-ing, as Ed-mund was just set-ting off for school, his fath-er de-si-red him not to go on the ice. But Ed-mund, as was u-su-al with him, quite for-got this com-mand by the time he came to the pond. The wa-ter was fro-zen o-ver with ve-ry thin ice, but Ed-mund did not know this, and ran on it, with-out once think-ing of wha his fath-er had said.

4. But his fath-er had kept af-ter him at a dis-tance, and now, see-ing his son in such dan-ger, call-ed out to him, "Ed-mund! Ed-mund! come off the ice." "Why, fath-er?" said he; but be-fore his fath-er could tell him the rea son, he fell through, and was drown-ed.

5. There was a lit-tle girl who did not mind what was said to her, for some-times she would get up-on the win-dow seat, and be in dan-ger of fall-ing out of the win-dow: at oth-er times she would stand so near the fire, as to be in dan-ger of set-ting her frock on fire, or of be-ing scald-ed by the boil-ing wa-ter in the tea ket-tle.

6. One day she climb-ed on the back of the nurse's chair who ri-sing up to fol-low a lit-tle boy that was at play with a dog, the chair fell up-on her, and she hurt her head ve-ry much a-gainst the floor.

7. Jane Care-less was ri-ding one day in a wag-gon with her mam-ma, who call-ed ma-n-y times to her, and told her not to lean o-ver the side of the wag-gon, but she paid no re-gard to what her moth-er said.

8. At length, when the wag-gon wheel was go-ing o-ver a stone, out fell poor Jane; she was ve-ry bad-ly hurt, and it was a long time be-fore she was well.

OF ORDER IN AFFAIRS, &c.

LESSON 14.

1. You have gone through your book, you say, and want a new les-son. Ve-ry well, I will give you one soon, but first go and put a-way with care the book you have just read o-ver; that is not to be thrown a-way be-cause you have got a new one.

2. Now, you think you know it all, but you may for-get part; and will want to read it a-gain. Be-sides, some of your play-mates may not have such a book, and per-haps they would like to bor-row it from you.

3. We en-joy a great deal of pleas-ure our-selves in giv ing oth-ers pleas-ure; and those things which we can-not give, we may and ought to lend to per-sons of care and pru-dence.

4. O! I can-not find my book, or my hat, is the com-mon com-plaint of ma-ny lit-tle boys and girls, and they run a-bout the house making a great noise, and prov-ing a pest to all a round them, be-cause they have not put things in their prop-er pla-ces.

5. Al-ways when you read, you should try to learn some-thing. If you hur-ry through a whole book at one les-son, with-out this, it will do you no good. If you have now learn-ed to put all things in their pla-ces, and to mind where they are, you have learn-ed what will help to make you ea-sy and use-ful through life.

OF LYING, AND OF CRUELTY TO ANIMALS.

LESSON 15.

1. Do you know what it is to tell a lie? It is to say what is not true, ei-ther to hide a fault, or to make a jest of a-ny one. Ly-ing is a vice you should be care-ful to a-void, be-cause, if you are once known to be a li-ar, no per-son will be-lieve a word you say.

2. A lit-tle boy, whose name was John, was so much in the prac-tice of tell-ing lies that he of-ten came to much harm from this e-vil ha-bit. A stout boy, of whom he had been tell-ing some false-hoods, one day way-laid him on his re-turn from school, and gave him a se-vere beat-ing.

3. He made his com-plaint to the mas-ter when he came to school again, but John had so of-ten said what was not true, that the mas-ter did not be-lieve him. From this time he be-gan to see the ill ef-fects of tell-ing lies, and was ve-ry care-ful in fu-ture to say noth-ing but what was truth.

4. Once, when I was in the back-woods, I saw men log-ging on new ground with a yoke of ox-en, and there was a ve-ry large log which the ox-en could not draw, though they tried to do it with all their might.

5. At this the man who was driv-ing got an-gry, and beat the poor ox-en with a large stick, of-ten stri-king them on the horns, which seem-ed to pain them ve-ry much.

6. At oth-er times, in the front town-ships, I have seen hor-ses u-sed ve-ry bad-ly ; not that they were do-ing a-ny harm, but be-cause they could not know the lan-guage of their mas-ters. Hence they were beat-en on the head, be-tween the ears, with the large end of a whip, which was like-ly as pain-ful to them, as it would be to ox-en to strike them on the horns.

7. Now, all such con-duct as this shews plain-ly the ab-sence of a hu-mane tem-per. Nev-er trust your-self in the pow-er of a per-son who can thus a-buse dumb beasts, for he would most like-ly ill use hu-man be-ings if they cross-ed his de-signs, and he could do so with e-qual safe-ty to his per-son.

8. God takes care for ox-en, and he no doubt marks the man or boy, who, from ca-price, bad-ly ex-erts a pow-er with which he proves un-fit to be trust-ed. It is the du-ty of all to be gen-tle in their con-duct, and to give those crea-tures that de-pend up-on them a prop-er de-gree of food, to pre-pare shel-ter from the ex-treme cold of win-ter, and to see that, in all re-spects, they are kind-ly ta-ken care of.

PRAYER.

LESSON 16.

Ere the morn-ing's bu-sy ray
Call you to your work a-way ;
Ere the si-lent eve-ning close
Your wea-ried eyes in sweet repose ;

To lift your heart and voice in pray-er
Be your first and la-test care.

2. He, to whom the pray-er is due
From heav-en, his throne, shall smile on you
An-gels sent by him shall tend
Your dai-ly la-bour to be-friend,
And their night-ly vi-gils keep
To guard you in the hour of sleep.

3. When through the peace-ful par-ish swells
The mu-sic of the Sab-bath bells,
Du-ly tread the sa-cred road
Which leads you to the house of God ;
The bles-sing of the Lamb is there,
And " God is in the midst of her."

4. And oh ! where'er your days be past ;
And oh ! how-e'er your lot be cast,
Still think on Him whose eye sur-veys
Whose hand is o-ver all your ways ;
A-broad, at home, in weal, or woe,
That ser-vice, which to heav-en you owe,
That boun-den ser-vice du-ly pay,
And God will bless you ev'ry day.

5. He only to the heart can give
Peace and true pleas-ure while you live ;
He on-ly, when you yield your breath,
Can guide you through the vale of death.

He can, he will, from out the dust,
Raise the blest spir-its of the just ;
Heal ev'ry wound, hush ev'ry fear ;
From ev'ry eye wipe ev'ry tear ;
And place them where dis-tress is o'er,
And pleas-ures dwell for ev-er-more.

INSTRUCTIVE LESSONS IN WORDS NOT EXCEEDING THREE SYLLABLES.

THE GOOD BOY.

LESSON 1.

1. The good boy loves his parents very dearly. He always minds what they say to him, and tries to please them. If they desire him not to do a thing he does it not; if they desire him to do a thing he does it. When they deny him what he wants, he does not grumble, or pout out his lips, or look angry; but he thinks that his parents know what is proper for him better than he does, because they are wiser than he is.

2. He loves his teachers, and all who tell him what is good. He likes to read, and to write, and to learn something new ev-e-ry day. He is kind to his brothers and sisters, and all his little play-fel-lows. He never fights, nor quarrels with them, nor calls them names. When he sees them do wrong he is sorry, and tries to persuade them to do better.

3. He does not speak rudely to any one. If he sees persons who are lame, or crooked, de-form-ed, or very old, he does not laugh at them, or mock them; but he is glad when he can do them any service. He is kind even to dumb creatures; for he knows that though they cannot speak, they can feel as well as we do ourselves. Even those an-i-mals which he does not think pretty, he takes care not to hurt.

4. He likes very much to see the birds pick up bits of hay, and moss, and wool, to build their nests with. Sometimes, he looks about in the bushes, and in the trees, and amongst the grass, for birds' nests; but when he has found them, he only just peeps at them; he would rather not see the little birds, than frighten them, or do them any mischief.

5. He never takes any thing that does not belong to him, or meddles with it without leave. When he walks in his father's garden, or orchard, he does not pull flowers, or gather fruit, unless he is told that he may do so. He never tells a lie. If he has done any mischief he con-fess-es it, and says he is very sorry, and will try to do so no more; and no person can be angry with him.

6. When he lies down at night, he tries to re-col-lect all he has been doing and learning in the day. If he has reason to reproach himself with im-prop-er conduct, he resolves on a-mend-ment and prays for divine as-sist-ance; and trusts that God, who is so good, will love and bless him.

7. He keeps holy the sabbath day. He loves to pray to God, to hear and read about him; and to go with his parents or friends to church. He re-mem-bers that in God's house it is wrong to stare around him. He knows that when he prays he speaks to God, and that when he hears a sermon, God speaks to him. He never sits at prayer, but if there is room, he always kneels, or else stands. Ev-e-ry person who knows this good boy loves him, and speaks well of him, and is kind to him; and he is very happy.

THE GOOD BOY, WHOSE PARENTS ARE RICH, &c.

LESSON 2.

1. The good boy, whose parents are rich, has fine clothes to wear; and he rides on a pretty little horse, and in a fine carriage; and he has servants, sometimes, to wait on him: but he does not, for all that, think that he is better than other boys whose parents are not rich; because all the people in the world have proceed-ed from one fam-i-ly.

2. He knows that all rich people are not so good as many who are poor; and that God gives a great deal of money, or other prop-er-ty, to some persons, in order that they may assist those who have little or none, as well as to promote re-li-gious objects.

3. He speaks very kindly to all his father's servants. He does not require them to wait upon him when they are at their meals, or very busy. If he wants them to do him a service, which he cannot do himself, he asks them pret-ti-ly; and thanks them for what they do for him.

4. He never gives the servants any trouble that he can avoid; therefore he is careful not to make any dirt in the house, and not to break any thing, or put it out of its place, and not to tear his clothes. When any of the do-mes-tics are sick, he likes to go and see them, and to enquire how they do. He likes to go with his father, or his mother, to see poor people in their log houses; and, if he sees they stand in need of it, he gives them almost all the money he has.

5. The good boy, whose parents are not rich, rises very early in the morning, and, after at-tend-ing to his prayers, does as much as he can, all day long, to help his father and mother. When he goes to school, he walks quickly, and loses no time on the road. My parents, says he, are very good, to save some of their money, in order that I may learn to read and write; but they cannot give much, nor can they spare me long; therefore I must learn as fast as I can.

6. I should, he con-tin-ues, be very sorry, when I grow to be a man, not to know how to read in the bible and other good books; and when I leave my parents, not to be able to read their letters, and to write them word where I am, and how I do. And I must learn accounts, for, when I grow up, I shall have many things to reckon about my work, and res-pect-ing what I buy. I shall, perhaps, have bills to make out, as my father has; and perhaps I shall be em-ploy-ed in a shop.

7. When he has fin-ish-ed his lessons, he does not stay to play, but runs home; he wants to see his father and mother, and to help them. He often sees naughty boys in the streets, and in the woods and fields, steal, fight, and do many bad things; and he hears them swear and call names, and tell lies; but he does not like to be with them, for fear they should make him as bad as they are themselves; and that any person who sees him with them should think that he also is wicked.

8. When he is at home, he is well em-ploy-ed. He takes care of the little children; weeds his father's garden, hoes and rakes it, and sows seeds in it. Sometimes he goes with his father to work; then he is very glad; and though he is but a little fellow, he works very well, almost like a man.

9. When he comes home to dinner, he says, how hungry I am! and how good this bread is, and this meat! Indeed, I think ev-e-ry thing we have is very good. I am glad I can work; I hope that I shall soon be able to earn all my clothes, and my food too. When he sees little boys and girls riding on pretty horses, or in nice carriages, or painted waggons, he does not envy them, nor wish to be like them.

10. He says, I have often been told, and I have read, that it is God who makes some to be poor and some rich; that the rich have many troubles which the poor know nothing of, and many temp-ta-tions which belong to themselves to forget God, and the concerns of the future world; and that the poor, if they are good, may be very happy: indeed, I think that when I am good no person can be more happy than I am.

THE INDUSTRIOUS LITTLE GIRL.

LESSON 3.

1. She always minds what her father and mother say to her; and takes pains to learn what-ev-er they are so kind as to teach her. She is never noisy or trou-ble-some; so they like to have her with them, and they like to talk to her, and to instruct her. She has learned to read so well, and she is so good a girl, that her father has given her sever-al little books, which she reads in by herself, when-ev-er she likes; and she understands all that is in them.

2. She knows the meaning of a great many dif-fi-cult words; and the names of nu-mer-ous countries, cities, and towns, and she can find them upon a map. She can write very pret-ti-ly even without a copy; and she can do a great many sums on a slate. What-ev-er she does, she takes pains to do it well; and when she is doing one thing, she tries not to think of an-oth-er. If she has made a mistake, or done any thing wrong, she is sorry for it; and when she is told of a fault, she en-deav-ours to avoid it an-oth-er time.

3. When she wants to know any thing, she asks her father, or her mother to tell her; and she tries to un-der-stand, and to re-mem-ber what they tell her; but if they do not think proper to answer her questions, she does not tease them, but says, when I am older they will perhaps instruct me ; and she thinks about something else.

4. She likes to sit by her mother, and sew or knit. When she sews, she does not take long stitches, or pucker her work ; but does it very neatly, just as her mother tells her to do. And she always keeps her work very clean ; for if her hands are dirty, she washes them before she begins her work, and when she has fin-ish-ed it, she folds it up, and puts it very care-ful-ly in her workbag, or in a drawer.

5. It is but very seldom indeed that she loses her thread or needles, or any thing she has to work with. She keeps her needles and thread in a proper place, and she has a pin-cush-ion on which she puts her pins. She does not stick needles in her sleeve, or put pins in her mouth ; for she has been told these are silly dan-ger-ous tricks, and she always pays at-ten-tion to what is said to her.

6. She takes care of her own clothes, and folds them up very neatly. She knows ex-act-ly where she puts them ; and, I believe, she could find them even in the dark. When she sees a hole in her stockings, or frock, or any of her clothes she mends it, or asks her mother to have it mended ; she does not wait till the rent is very large, for she re-mem-bers what her mother has told her, that a stitch in time saves nine.

7. She does not like to waste any thing.—She never throws away, or burns, crumbs of bread, or peelings of fruit, or little bits of muslin or linen, or ends of thread ; for she has seen the chickens and little birds picking up crumbs, and the pigs feeding upon peelings of fruit ; and she has seen the man go about gath-er-ing rags, which her mother has told her he sells to people who make paper of them.

8. When she goes with her mother into the kitchen and the dairy, she takes notice of every thing she sees ; but she does not meddle with any thing without leave. She knows how puddings, tarts, butter and bread, are made.

9. She can iron her own clothes ; and she can make her own bed. She likes to feed the chickens and the young turkeys and to give them clean water to drink ; she likes to work in her little garden, to weed it, and to sow seeds and to plant roots in it; and she likes to do little jobs for her mother; she likes to be employed, and she endeavours to be useful.

10. If all little girls would be so attentive, and so much given to industry, how they would delight their parents and their kind friends! and they would be much happier themselves, than when they are obstinate or idle, and will not learn any thing properly, or mind what is said to them

INSTRUCTIVE LESSONS ON VARIOUS SUBJECTS.

THE KNOWLEDGE OF LETTERS.

LESSON 4.

1. The knowledge of letters is one of the greatest blessings enjoyed by man. By this means we preserve for our own use, through all our lives, what our memory would have lost in a few days; and lay up a treasure of knowledge for those that shall come after us.

2. By the art of reading, we can sit at home and acquaint ourselves of what is done in the most distant parts of the world, and know what our fathers did long ago, in the first ages of mankind. We can also see what is now transpiring in the United States—how the law is there often set at defiance, thereby rendering the tenure of life and property exceedingly insecure.

3. By this means a person in Canada can converse with his friends in England, Ireland, or Scotland; by this we know what China produces, and how the natives of Tartary live; by this we know what has been done in Egypt, Greece, and Turkey; and by the same means those who live after us, will know what is now done in the British Provinces of America.

4. In short, the art of letters does, as it were, revive all the past ages of men, and set them at once upon the stage; it brings all the nations from afar, and gives them a general interview; so that the most distant nations, and distant ages of mankind, may converse together, and grow into acquaintance.

5. Above all, we have reason to be thankful for a knowledge of this art, because it enables us to become acquainted with the important truths contained in the Bible, relative to the creation of the world, and our fall from the state of innocence, in which we were created. It points out our social, civil, and religious duties, and the necessity of being renovated in heart and life, in order that we may answer the end of our being here, and be prepared for an eternal state of happiness in the world to come.

SUBORDINATION.

LESSON 5.

1. Order is Heaven's first law. From the earliest dawn of reason to the hour of death, when we reluctantly take the last bitter medicine, we have to submit our wills, more or less, to the will of others. We cannot, in childhood, see that the motive which induces our parents to lay us under restraint, is a regard to our future happiness. It seems to us to be caprice, or, at least, arbitrary dictation.

2. But we learn to submit our wills to theirs; and here is the foundation of government, and here commences a system of bonds, and obligations, which abide on us through life. As we advance in life, we see that the reason of family government is not a love of authority, or an infliction of punishment; but it arises from a compassion of our ignorance, and a desire to form our characters for the world in which we are to live and act.

3. As we leave the paternal roof, the laws of the land reach us, and throw their obligations around us. If we violate them, the laws to which all have agreed to abide, take hold of us. The judge is only the mouth of the law, and the magistrate who punishes, is only the hand. But it is the law, the naked law, which no one or two can alter, which reaches the highest and lowest in the community with entire impartiality, that compels us to bow our wills to its mandates. Without this, no community could be safe or prosperous. Life, character and property, would alike be a prey to the wicked, without this power and majesty of law.

LOYALTY A PART OF THE CHRISTIAN'S DUTY.

LESSON 6.

1. By loyalty is meant respect and love for our Queen, and a determination to defend her against the attacks of wicked men. The fifth commandment directs us to render all nonour and respect to our parents, and, if we strictly observe this law, we shall be careful to reverence our Queen, who, in a certain sense, is the parent and protector of us all.

2. The Christian should always regulate his conduct by the word of God, and take care that he does not break any of its precepts. Loyalty being commanded by God in his holy Book, he cannot be disloyal, unless he fail in an essential part of his duty. He may be devout, he may go regularly to church, he may avoid the commission of any great sin, yet, if he be wanting in respect for his Sovereign he is defective; he cannot be a rebel and true Christian,—he cannot keep the commandments of God, and at the same time break one of his principal injunctions.

3. But when a nation, blessed as we are, with a kind and merciful government, is discontented and unthankful, the crime of disobedience is increased by that of ingratitude; and though that rebellious people should be successful in this world, a fearful punishment awaits them in the next.

4. Our Saviour, whose example all Christians should follow, always instructed his disciples to pay respect to their governors. His apostles, after his ascension, though persecuted and oppressed by tyrants, were remarkable for their obedience to the Roman emperors.

5. There is then no excuse for us if we do not honour our rulers; we are commanded to do so, and GOD ALMIGHTY will certainly visit us with his angry displeasure, if we refuse to obey. Let us remember, then, to “Fear God and honour the Queen.”

OF INTemperance.

LESSON 7.

1. There are many kinds of intemperance, but at present I allude to that arising from the use of intoxicating liquors. As this is the worst species of intemperance, it may be necessary to put my young readers on their guard, lest unawares they should acquire a fondness for intoxicating drink.

2. Habits, even of the most vicious kind, are easily acquired; and since the common use of such liquor as whiskey, rum, brandy or gin, is ruinous in every view, you should keep it at the utmost distance. No person in the right use of his senses would invite, or be familiar with, his most mortal enemy; and that this is the character of ardent spirits when inordinately used, I shall proceed to illustrate.

3. Drunkenness drowns and infatuates the senses, depraves the reason, spoils the understanding, causes errors in judgment, defiles the conscience, hardens the heart, and brings on or induces a spiritual lethargy. It is a work of darkness, an annoyance to modesty, and a gate to every kind of wickedness.

4. It is a revealer of secrets, a betrayer of trust, a despoiler of honesty, and a forerunner of misery. It destroys men's credit, empties their purses, consumes their estate, perverts the order of nature, causes profane and cursed speeches, vaunting, swearing, and blasphemy—quarreling, fighting, and murder.

5. It deforms the visage, corrupts the health, injures the memory, and inflames the blood.—It is a voluntary madness, a deceiver of fools, and a flattering devil. It causes forgetfulness of God, is a provoker of his judgments, hastens, and often brings untimely death, and at last ruins the soul eternally.

6. A drunkard, in that state, is incapable of any thing good, is a game and sport of profane people, a ridiculous object, his own sorrow, woe and shame, his wife's grief, his children's disgrace, his neighbour's contempt, and his family's ruin.

7. He is an enemy to himself, a scandal to Christianity, a dishonour to God, an abuser of his mercies, is subject to many dangers, a slave to the devil and his own lusts; and a traveller to destruction.

8. Drunkenness produces sickness, bloatedness, inflamed eyes, red nose and face, gout, jaundice, dropsy, palsy, epilepsy, apoplexy, melancholy, idiotism, madness, death.

9. The punishments are, debt, black eyes, rags, hunger, jail, whipping post, stocks, gallows; and unless prevented by timely repentance, the lake of fire prepared originally for the devil and his angels.

SELECT APHORISMS.

LESSON 8.

1. The improvement of a little time may be gain to all eternity; and the loss of a little time may be the greatest loss that can be.

2. In eating and drinking, let a man do nothing contrary to the health of his body; nothing to indispose it as a mansion and instrument of the soul; nothing to the dishonour of himself as a rational being, created in the image of God.

3. Modesty and humility are the sobriety of the mind; temperance and chastity are the sobriety of the body.

4. He is not likely to learn who is unwilling to be taught; for the learner has something to do as well as the teacher.

5. The profane swearer sins for nothing, upon no temptation, for no credit; unless it be a credit not to be believed.

6. No man is convinced of truth by seeing another person fall into a passion. He rather suspects error and design.

7. Those who think themselves wise are the least wise of any. It is a wise man's motto, "I live to be wiser every day."

8. When we do any good to others we do as much or more good to ourselves.

9. There is more solid satisfaction in good self-government than in all the pleasures of the world.

10. The precepts of religion are principles of wisdom. There is no true majesty without goodness. A repining life is a lingering death.

11. Laziness is more painful than industry: and to be employed is easier than to be idle.

12. Never speak evil of any one, unless to prevent injury to yourself or the community. Evil-speaking generally proceeds from envy, pride, or malice.

13. All who have meditated on the art of governing mankind, have been convinced, that the fate of empires depends on the education of youth.

OF THE ARTS AND SCIENCES.

LESSON 9.

1. Aerostation is the modern art of raising bodies into, and navigating the air, by means of rarified or inflammable air collected within an envelope, commonly called a balloon.

2. Agriculture, the most innocent and useful of all pursuits, is the art of cultivating the ground, so as to make it fruitful in the production of food for man and beast.

3. Algebra is a method of calculating quantities in general, by means of signs or characters, which, instead of figures, are the letters of the Alphabet. The first letters, a, b, c, d, &c. are made to represent known quantities; and the last letters, x, y, z, to represent those that are unknown.

4. Anatomy is the art of dissecting bodies for the purpose of examining their structure, and the nature, uses, and functions of their several parts; and also of the knowledge of the human body derived from such dissections and examinations. Anatomy, taken absolutely, applies only to the dissection of human subjects; the dissection and examination of brutes is called Comparative Anatomy.

5. Architecture is the art of erecting all sorts of buildings, whether for habitation or defence, according to the best plans or models. It is divided into three distinct branches; namely, Civil, Military, and Naval.

6. There are five orders of Civil Architecture, the Tuscan, Doric, Ionic, Corinthian and Composite. Some add to these the Gothic, exemplified in the construction of most cathedrals and old churches.

7. Arithmetic is the art of numbering or computing by certain rules, of which the four first and simplest are addition, subtraction, multiplication and division. Vulgar Arithmetic is the computation of numbers in the ordinary concerns of life. Integral Arithmetic treats of whole numbers; Fractional Arithmetic of fractional numbers; and Decimal Arithmetic of decimal numbers.

 THE ARTS, &c.

LESSON 10.

1. Astronomy is that grand and sublime science which treats of the heavenly bodies, and explains their forms, motions, distances and magnitudes. The sun, and the planetary bodies which move round him, constitute the Solar System. The words solar comes from the Latin sol, which signifies the sun.

2. The earth moves round the sun, and is ninety-five millions of miles distant from him. It has two motions, the one round the sun, which it performs yearly, and the other round its own axis, which it performs daily. The first is called its annual revolution, and the other its diurnal.

2d rotation. The annual revolution is the cause of the change and variety of the seasons; and the diurnal of the succession of day and night.

3. The number of planets is eleven. Their names, beginning with that nearest the sun, are Mercury, Venus, the Earth, Mars, Vesta, Juno, Ceres, Pallas, Jupiter, Saturn, and Uranus. Of these, Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn are very conspicuous, and have been known from immemorial time; the other five are visible only through the telescope. They all derive their light from the sun; and they move round him from west to east.

4. Satellites are bodies which accompany some of the Planets, and they are eighteen in number. The moon is a satellite to the earth; Jupiter has four moons or satellites; Saturn seven, and Uranus six. Saturn is also surrounded with two luminous rings.

5. Comets are opaque bodies like the planets, moving in defined but very eccentric orbits round the sun; but we know very little of them, as the periods of only a few have been ascertained with any degree of exactness. Comets have received their name from coma, or the vapour with which they are surrounded.

6. The fixed stars are bodies luminous in themselves—they are suns, vastly larger, it is probable, than the one which gives us light and the centres of their own planetary systems.

7. A Constellation is an assemblage of fixed stars, imagined to represent the form of some creature or other object, as a bear, a ship, and the like; whence they have derived those appellations, which are convenient in describing the stars.

8. The division of the heavens into constellations is very ancient, probably co-eval with astronomy itself. Frequent mention is made of them by name in the sacred writings, as in the book of Job, and in the prophecy of Amos.

9. Some of the constellations are also mentioned by Homer and Hesiod, who flourished above nine hundred years before Christ; and Aratus, who lived about two hundred and seventy-seven years before Christ, professedly treats of all such as were marked out by the ancients. These were forty-eight in number, called the old constellations, to which have since been added others, called new constellations.

10. There are twelve constellations placed in the Zodiac, which is a fancied broad circle in the heavens, through which the sun appears to move in the compass of a year. The signs north of the equinoctial line are Aries, Taurus, Gemini, Cancer, Leo, Virgo. The southern signs are Libra, Scorpio, Sagittarius, Capricornus, Aquarius, Pisces. Of these, the following is a poetical description in English.

The Ram, the Bull, the heavenly Twins
And next the Crab, the Lion shines,
The Virgin and the Scales;
The Scorpion, Archer, and Sea-goat.
The Man that holds the Water-pot
And Fish, with glittering tail

THE ARTS, &c.

LESSON 11.

1. Biography is the history of the lives of eminent men, the reading of which is not only amusing and entertaining, but is of the greatest use, for it gives an insight into human nature, and excites us to imitate the actions of the good, and to avoid those of the wicked.

2. Botany is that part of natural history which treats of plants, their several kinds, forms, virtues, and uses, and is a very delightful study; besides, it displays the wisdom and glory of the Creator, for—

There's not a plant, or flower that grows,
But shews its maker—God.

3. Chemistry is that science which investigates the composition and properties of bodies, and by which we are enabled to explain the causes of the natural changes which take place in material substances. It is of the highest importance to mankind, since by its investigations, the practical arts are constantly improving.

4. All satisfactory explanation of the causes of rain, hail, dew, wind, earthquakes, and volcanoes, have been given by the aid of chemical knowledge. The phenomena of respiration, the decay and growth of plants, and the functions of the several parts of animals, are also explained by the aid of Chemistry.

5. In its application to agriculture, Chemistry furnishes the most direct and certain means of ascertaining what a barren soil requires to make it fruitful, and also what ingredient is best adapted to any given kind of produce. The making of soap, glass, the several kinds of acid, and almost every kind of medicine, depend wholly on the manipulations of Chemistry. It is also connected, in various degrees, with the art of the potter, iron-smith, tanner, sugar-maker, distiller, brewer, paper-maker, and painter.

6. Chronology is the art of measuring time, and distinguishing its parts, so as to determine what period has elapsed since any memorable event. The term is derived from two Greek words, chronos and logos, which signify time and description.

7. Time has two divisions, a smaller and a greater. The smaller division consists of years, months, weeks, days, hours, minutes and seconds, deduced from the motions of the heavenly bodies, and suited to the purposes of civil life. The larger division consists of epochs, centuries or ages, lustrums, olympiads, indictions, and cycles, which are measured by the smaller division.

8. An epoch is any fixed point or period of time, from which historians date events; as the creation of the world, the birth of Christ, &c. The last-mentioned epoch is generally called the common era.

9. A century is the space of one hundred years, completed by a hundred revolutions of the earth round the sun. A lustrum is a space of five years, at the end of which a general review of the Roman citizens, and their estates, was made.

10. An Olympiad is the space of four years, by which the Greeks reckoned their time after the institution of the Olympic games; these were celebrated in honour of Jupiter Olympius, in the environs of the city of Olympia, in Peloponnesus.

11. An indiction is the space of fifteen years. The cycle of the sun is a revolution of twenty-eight years, used for finding the dominical, or Sunday letter, &c., which, when expired, will return in the same order as before.

12. A cycle of the moon is a period or revolution of nineteen years after which time the new and full moon return on the same days of the month as before, excepting one hour and twenty-eight minutes sooner. One use of these cycles is to show on what day Easter will fall, for any number of years to come.

THE ARTS, &c.

LESSON 12.

1. Commerce is the art of buying and selling, or the exchanging of one commodity for another. By its aid, one country partakes of the produce, and enjoys the advantages of another.

2. Electricity is the science which treats of the electric power, and its various laws, operations, effects, experiments, &c. The electric power is that property first discovered in amber, of attracting light bodies when excited by heat or friction. It has since been found in other bodies, as sealing wax, agate, and most kinds of precious stones.

3. Ethics is the science of moral duties, shewing the rules and measures of human conduct which tend to happiness; its object is the exercise of right reason in all our affairs and actions.

4. Geography is a description of the earth. Geometry treats of lines, surfaces, and solids, and is the doctrine of extension and magnitude in general. Grammar is the art of speaking and writing any language with correctness and propriety.

5. History, in its most general sense, is an account or description of events and things in an orderly series, comprehending civil or political history, sacred history, ecclesiastical history, and natural history. It is sometimes divided into ancient and modern, sacred and profane.

6. Ancient history gives an account of all things, from the creation of the world to the birth of Christ. Modern history gives an account of all things from the birth of Christ to the present time.

7. Sacred history is that which is contained in the Bible, making us acquainted with God and divine things. Profane history is a general name given to all records except sacred, whether ancient or modern. Natural history is a description of natural things, as animals, vegetables, fire, water, &c.

8. Horology is the science which treats of the measuring of portions of time. The principal instruments used in the measuring of time are dials, clocks, watches and hour-glasses. Horticulture is the art of cultivating a garden, and rearing the finest kinds of plants.

9. Hydrostatics is the science which treats of the laws regulating the motions, pressure, gravitation and equilibrium of fluid bodies, particularly water, and also of solid bodies immersed therein.

LESSON 13.

1. Jurisprudence is the art of conducting the affairs of a public society or community, so as to procure and preserve, in the highest degree possible, the interest and happiness of the whole, and of each individual.

2. Society is divided into three sorts, namely, a family, a city, and a republic or nation; and as these consist of persons in a different relation to each other, so, various and different forms of government are found necessary for each.

3. The several laws are the law of nature, the civil law, and the law of nations. The law of nature is that which nature and reason have taught mankind, as the power it gives to parents over their children.

4. The law of nations consists of public acts and statutes, which provide for the public utility, and the necessity of the people, considered as a body corporate; and ordain or decree whatever relates to obedience and subjection, dominion and government, war and peace, contracts, &c.

5. The civil law is that which is peculiar to any country or people, and administers that justice which arises from their particular situation, and special relations and circumstances. When this respects a city or borough, it is called the municipal law.

6. The laws by which England is governed are the Civil Law, before-mentioned. The Common Law, containing the summary of all the laws, rights, and privileges of the people of England, in what is called Magna Charta, or the Great Charter, of English Rights.

7. The Statute Law, consisting of statutes, acts, and ordinances of King and Parliament. The Canon Law, which is a collection of ecclesiastical law, serving as the rule of church government. Martial Law, used in all military and maritime affairs. Forest Law, which relates to the regulation of the forest and the chase.

8. The several courts of judicature, for the administration of justice and right are, the high Court of Parliament, consisting of King, Lords, and Commons. The King's Bench, in which all the pleas of the Crown or what concerns the life, peace, and property of the subject, are transacted.

9. The Court of Chancery, designed to mitigate the rigour of com mon law, and to set things upon the footing of right, and is therefore called the Court of Equity.

10. The Court of Common Pleas, in which are debated the usual and common pleas, or causes between subject and subject, according to the rules of the law. The Court of Exchequer, in which are tried all causes relative to the revenue and treasury of the Queen. The Court of Admiralty, which takes cognizance of affairs, civil and military, relating to the seas.

THE ARTS, &c.

LESSON 14.

1. Language is human speech in general, or an assemblage of articulate sounds, forming words and signs for the expression of the thoughts of the mind. The great number and diversity of languages arose from the building of the Tower of Babel, as related in the eleventh chapter of Genesis.

2. Languages are divided into the dead and living languages. The dead languages are those which were spoken formerly, but which are not at this time spoken by any nation. Those languages which are spoken by different nations at the present day, are called living languages.

3. The principal of the dead languages are the Hebrew, Greek and Latin; and of the living in Europe the English, the French, the Italian, the Spanish, the German, the Portuguese; and many others in the East.

4. Logic is the art of thinking and reasoning justly, and of communicating the result of our thoughts to others. It is divided into four parts, according to the number of the operations of the mind in its search after knowledge, namely, perception, judgment, reason, and method or disposition.

5. Perception is the first and most simple act of the mind, whereby it perceives, or is conscious of its ideas. Judgment is that power of the mind, whereby we join ideas together, and affirm or deny any thing concerning them.

6. Reason is that faculty or power of the mind whereby it distinguishes good from evil, truth from falsehood, and is used in comparing several ideas together, in order to draw the consequences from the relations they are found to bear to each other.

7. Disposition or method, is the art of arranging our thoughts in such a manner, as shall contribute most to the strength and beauty of a discourse, and display the connexion and dependance of one part on the other.

8. Macadamizing is a method of making roads, introduced in England by Mr. Mac Adam, and which consists in breaking the stones, intended for the surface, into small and equal sizes: a smooth hard road is thereby produced.

9. Mathematics is that branch of science which treats of the quantities and proportions of magnitude in general. It includes Arithmetic, Algebra, and Geometry; and is applicable to Astronomy, Hydrostatics, Mechanics, Optics, Architecture, Geography, Navigation, Pneumatics, and, in fact, every science that involves numbers or magnitude

THE ARTS, &c.

LESSON 15.

1. Mechanics is that branch of science which treats of the nature and laws of motion, the action and force of moving bodies, the construction of machines, &c. The simple mechanic powers are the lever, the wheel and axle, the pulley, the inclined plane, the wedge, and the screw.

2. Mineralogy is that science which treats of the properties and relations of that numerous class of substances called mineral. Minerals are divided into four classes, namely, the Earthy, the Saline, the Inflammable, and the Metallic.

3. Music is a science which teaches the properties, dependencies and relations of melodious sounds; or the art of producing harmony and melody, by the due combination and arrangement of those sounds.

4. This science, when employed in searching the principles of this combination and succession, and the causes of the pleasure we receive from them, becomes very profound, and demands much patience, sagacity and depth of thinking.

5. It is generally understood, or supposed, that the word music is derived from musa, but Diodorus derives it from an Egyptian name, intimating that music was first established as a science in Egypt after the deluge, and that the first idea of musical sound was received from that produced by the reeds growing on the banks of the Nile, by the wind blowing into them.

6. Others, again, imagine, that the first ideas of music were received from the warbling of birds. However this may really have been, it appears, at least, equally rational to attribute its origin to mankind, since musical intonation in the infancy of language, must often have been the natural result of passionate feeling; and since also we find, that wherever there is speech there is song.

7. Music, properly so called, only concerns the due regulation and proportion of sound, and is divided into two parts—the theoretical and the practical. Theoretical Music comprehends the knowledge of harmony and modulation; and the laws of that successive arrangement of sound, by which air, or melody, is produced.

8. Practical Music is the art of bringing this knowledge and those laws into operation, by actually disposing of the sounds, both in combination and succession, so as to produce the desired effect; and this is the art of composition.

9. But practical music may, in fact, be said to extend still further, and to include not only the production of melodious and harmonious composition, but also its performance; which is considered as an innocent and agreeable recreation, as it relieves a wearied attention, and refreshes the exhausted spirits; it also frequently calms the disquiet and perturbation of the mind.

LESSON 16.

1. Mythology is the history of the fabulous gods and heroes of antiquity, with the explanation of the mysteries and allegories connected with them. The word is derived from the Greek, and signifies a discourse or description of fables.

2. Navigation is the art of conducting a vessel at sea from one port to another. Optics is that branch of natural philosophy which treats of the nature of light and colours, or of the general doctrine of vision.

3. Ornithology is that branch of Natural History which treats of birds, and their natures, habits, form, economy, and uses. Painting is the art of representing natural bodies by outline and colour. An ingenious and useful art: it enables us to concentrate in one view the form and beauty of objects, and greatly assists the mind in retaining the resemblance of those objects which, without it, would be for ever lost. Its essential parts are composition, drawing and colouring.

4. Philosophy is, properly, the love of wisdom, and is a term applied either to the study of nature or morality, founded on reason and experience, or the systems which different men have devised of explaining the various phenomena in the natural and moral world.

5. Phonics is the doctrine or science of sounds; it is sometimes called Acoustics. It is divided into two parts, Diaphonics and Cataphonics.

6. Diaphonics is that science which explains the property of those sounds that come directly from the sonorous body to the ear; and Cataphonics treats of reflected sounds, or is the science of echoes.

7. The principal use of Phonics is in relation to music, to which it gives a basis on the principles of mathematics. Experiment has demonstrated, that if a musical string of any length give a certain tone, half that length will give the octave, two thirds of it the fifth, and the other notes of the scale in exact proportion.

8. Phrenology is a new subject of investigation, which professes to teach, from the conformation of the human skull, the particular characters and propensities of men presuming that the faculties and operations of the human mind have their particular seat in certain parts of the brain, and are to be traced by particular external bumps or protuberances.

9. Physiognomy is the study of men's particular characters and ruling passions, from the features of the face, and the cast of the countenance. This science, as well as that of Phrenology, cannot, perhaps, be much depended on.

10. Physiology is that branch of medicine which treats of the structure and constitution of the human body, and the functions of the various parts, with regard to the cure of diseases.

11. Pneumatics is the science which treats of the mechanical properties of air, and other compressible fluids. The principal mechanical properties of air which are treated of under this science are its fluidity, weight, and elasticity.

THE ARTS, &c.

LESSON 17.

1. Poetry is the art of writing poems, namely, real or fictitious compositions drawn out in measured language. As respects the subject, it is divided into pastorals, satires, elegies, epigrams, &c.; as respects the manner or form of representation, into epic, lyric, and dramatic poetry, &c.; as respects the verse into blank verse and rhyme.

2. Politics is the art of governing and regulating the affairs of a state or kingdom, for the maintenance of the public safety, order and tranquillity.

3. Printing is the art of taking impressions from characters or figures, moveable or immoveable, on paper, linen, silk, &c. Printing is of four kinds, namely, one for books from moveable letters, composed and set in a form, and another for books from solid pages; a third for pictures from copper-plates; a fourth for printing calicoes, linens, &c. from blocks, on which are represented different figures. The first of these is printing properly so called; the second is stereotype printing; the third copper-plate printing; and the fourth calico printing.

4. Religion is that sentiment of veneration, dependence, and love, which binds us to the Deity, and is expressed in such acts of worship as he himself has prescribed.

5. Rhetoric is the art of expressing our ideas so as to please, affect, and persuade, either in writing or speaking. A good orator must possess an inventive genius, a correct judgment, command of language, a retentive memory, and an agreeable delivery.

6. A regular thesis usually consists of five parts, namely, the exordium, the narration, the confirmation, the refutation, and the peroration. The exordium, or introduction, prepares the minds of the auditors for what follows.

7. The narration gives an account of the matter of fact, which must be plain and varied. The confirmation is that part of the oration in which the orator disposes his necessary evidence or proofs.

8. The refutation is that part of the discourse in which the orator refutes and destroys the reasons and arguments of his adversary; and, it must be pointed and sharp.

9. The peroration, or conclusion, is a compressed recapitulation of all that has been said, and it must be determined by the nature of the discourse; it is designed to fix in the minds of the auditors the full meaning of the oration.

10. The principal rhetorical figures are the following, which are written in easy verse, in order to make them familiar to young people:—

1. A metaphor in borrowed words compares;
Thus, for excess, we say a "flood of tears."
2. An Allegory is a chain of tropes;
"I've pass'd the shoals, fair gales now swell my hopes."
3. A Metonymy takes some other name;
"Just heaven (for God) confounds their pride with shame."
4. Synecdoche the whole for part doth take,
Or part for whole, just for the metre's sake,
"While o'er thy roof (for house) loud thunders break."
5. An Irony quite the reverse intends,
Of what it speaks; "Well done ! right trusty friends !"
6. Onomatopœia forms words from sound;
"Flies buzz, bees hum, winds whistle all around."
7. Hyperbole soars high, or sinks too low;
"He touch'd the skies." "Snails do not crawl so slow."
8. A Climax by gradation still ascends;
"They were my countrymen, my neighbours, friends."
9. A Catacrexis words abused implies;
"Over his grave, a wooden tombstone lies."

THE TEACHER'S COUNSEL TO HIS PUPILS.

LESSON 17.

1. Ye docile youths, who learning love
And would in various arts improve,
And to be taught to me repair,
These precepts in your memory bear.
When morning first unseals your eyes,
And bids you to your labours rise,
To God with pious ardour pray,
That he would bless the passing day.
For all your studies are but vain,
Which no celestial blessing gain.
2. Then wash'd, and decent in your dress,
Let each in school assume his place,
And while you at your books remain,
Let thoughtful silence always reign;

For stillness, I have found by use,
 Will to your progress much conduce,
 All chat, and play, are here debarr'd ;
 No voice, but his who reads, be heard ;
 Whatever be the task assign'd,
 Perform it with a willing mind.

3. You that in writing would excel,
 First imitate your copies well :
 Down strokes make strong, and upward fine,
 And boldness, with your freedom, join.
 If, by luxuriant fancy bent,
 You aim at curious ornament,
 Your plastic pen, by frequent use,
 May fishes, beasts, and birds produce ;
 But chiefly strive to gain a hand
 For business, with a just command.
4. When figures exercise your quill,
 They ask your care, and all your skill ;
 Your fancy may in writing guide,
 But reason here must be applied.
 As you the learned track pursue,
 Fresh useful scenes will crowd your view ;
 The mathematics' spacious field,
 Will grand and noble prospects yield ;
 Whether by maps, o'er seas you rove,
 Or trace the starry heavens above,
 What rapturous pleasures will you find,
 When demonstration feasts the mind !
5. Let those who for instruction come
 To learn the tongues of Greece and Rome
 Or French polite, that now is made
 The general speech in courts and trade,
 Learn grammar first, learn grammar well,
 If they would in the tongues excel ;
 For none will a good structure raise
 Except he this foundation lays.
6. Whene'er you are from school dismiss'd
 And have my leave to play or rest,
 Still let my counsels have their sway,
 And even regulate your play.
 Such sportful exercises choose,
 As will the most to health conduce,
 Tops, kites, and marbles, hoops, and ball,
 By turns the younger people call ;

While boys of larger size resort
To some more strong and manly sport ·
But see you give no place to rage,
Nor money in your play engage;
For sordid thirst of gain destroys
All peace of mind—in men and boys.

7. Abominate the lying tongue,
And scorn to do your fellow wrong;
From oaths, and idle talk, refrain,
And doubtful fables, for they're vain.
But if sometimes you be inclin'd
To give refreshment to the mind,
Historians, and poetic lays,
At once will both instruct and please.
In English writers we abound,
In whom much useful learning's found;
But frivolous song, and wild romance,
Be ever banish'd far from hence.
8. Soon as your judgment waxes strong,
And can distinguish right from wrong.
Think it no task to read in youth
The Testaments of sacred truth;
With diligence peruse them through,
In every language that you know;
By day revolve them with delight,
And on them meditate by night.—
When to your meals the call you hear,
At once, without delay, appear;
At table in decorum sit;
All prating is forbid at meat.
In food observe the golden mean,
And keep your clothes and linen clean;
And when you've eat what does suffice
Thank Heaven, and in good order rise.
9. One precept yet remains behind
Which must be fixed upon your mind
Of foolish chat in bed beware;
Be silent, and be modest there:
Let no disturbance then be made,
But meditate upon your bed;
And ere your head the pillow bears
Apply to Him who always hears
The breathings of a pious breast;
And you may safely sink to rest.

APPENDIX.

OUTLINES OF GEOGRAPHY.

GEOGRAPHY is a description of the surface of the earth, as consisting of land and water.

The land is divided into Continents, Islands, Peninsulas, Isthmuses, Capes and Promontories.

The water is divided into Oceans, Seas, Lakes, Bays, Gulfs and Straits.

A Continent is the largest extent of land, containing many kingdoms and states, as Europe, Asia, &c.—An Island is a smaller portion of land, wholly surrounded by water, as Great Britain, Ireland, &c.—A Peninsula is land almost surrounded by water, as the Morea in Greece, Jutland, &c.—An Isthmus is a narrow neck of land, joining a peninsula to the main land, as the Isthmus of Corinth in Greece.—A Promontory is a high land, jutting far into the sea.—A Cape is the extremity of a promontory, as the Cape of Good Hope.

An Ocean is the largest body of water, as the Atlantic and the Pacific Oceans.—Seas are detached parts of the ocean, as the Baltic and Mediterranean seas.—A Lake is water surrounded by land, as Lake Ontario, &c.—A Bay or Gulf is water partly surrounded by land, as the Bay of Biscay, the Gulf of St. Lawrence.—A Strait is a narrow passage of water, joining one sea to another, as the Straits of Gibraltar and Dover.

EUROPE.—Europe, though the least quarter of the Globe, is the most distinguished for the fertility of its soil, the temperature of its climate, and for the cultivation of the arts and sciences. It is bounded N. by the Northern Ocean, W. by the Atlantic Ocean, S. by the Mediterranean Sea, E. by Asia, the Black Sea, the Sea of Marmora, and the Archipelago. The population of Europe has been estimated at 230 millions. The following are the countries of Europe, with their chief towns or capitals, viz:—

The CHIEF ISLANDS belonging to Great Britain are the Orkneys, and Shetland Isles, the Hebrides or Western Isles, the Isles of Man, Anglessea, Wight, Scilly, Jersey, Guernsey, Alderney and Sark.

In the Baltic are Zealand and Funen, Rugen, Bornholm, Gotland, Aland, Oland, Dago and Oesel.

In the Mediterranean, Ivica, Majorca, Minorca, Sardinia, Corsica, Sicily, Malta, Cefalonia, Zante, Candia, Cyprus, Rhodes, and the Islands in the Archipelago.

The CHIEF MOUNTAINS in Europe are the Dofrine or D Grafield Mountains, between Norway and Sweden; the Uralian Mountains in Russia; Carpathian Mountains between Poland and Hungary; Pyrenees between France and Spain; the Alps, which surround the north of Italy; the Peak in Derbyshire, England; Snowden in Wales; the Cheviot hills in Scotland; and Mounie Mountains in Ireland. The burning mountains are Vesuvius, near Naples; Etna in Sicily; and Hecla, in the cold isle of Iceland. Mont Blanc, a peak of the Alps, is the highest mountain in Europe, being 15,602 feet above the level of the sea.

The SEAS are, the Baltic Sea, the North Sea, the Irish Sea, the English Channel, St. George's Channel, the Mediterranean Sea, the Black Sea and the Archipelago.

The LAKES are those of Ladoga and Onega in Russia; Wener and Wetteren in Sweden; and the lakes of Geneva and Constance on the borders of Switzerland.

The BAYS, GULFS, &c. are the Bay of Biscay, Gulfs of Bothnia and Finland, Gulfs of Venice and Lepanto.

The STRAITS are those of Dover, Gibraltar, Bonifacio, Messina, and Kaffa, Dardanelles and Constantinople.

The RIVERS are the Thames and Severn in England; the Forth and Tay in Scotland; the Shannon in Ireland; the Elbe in Saxony; Rhine between France and Germany; Seine and Rhone in France; the Tagus in Portugal and Spain; Po and Tiber in Italy; the Weisel or Vistula in Poland; Wolga and Don in Russia; and the Danube, which flows from Germany to the Black Sea.

ASIA,

Is bounded N. by the Northern Ocean; W. by Europe, the Black Sea, Archipelago, Mediterranean, Isthmus of Suez, and Red Sea; S. by the Indian Ocean; and E. by the Pacific Ocean.

The superficial area, including the islands, has been estimated at 29,200,000 square miles; and its population at 400,000,000.

Asia is, therefore, the most populous quarter of the globe. It is here the first man was created—the patriarchs lived—the law was given to Moses—and the greatest and most celebrated monarchies were formed. In Asia the promulgation of Christianity was first made, and from thence the light of the Gospel was diffused over the whole world; and almost all the laws, arts and sciences had here their origin. The countries which it contains are:—

Turkey in Asia, - - - - -	Smyrna, Aleppo, Damascus, Bagdad.
Arabia, - - - - -	Mecca, Medina, Mocha.
Persia, - - - - -	Teheran, Ispahan.
Afghanistan, - - - - -	Cabul, Candahar, Herat.
Hindustan, - - - - -	Calcutta, Madras, Bombay, Delhi, Benares.
Eastern Peninsula, - - -	Ava, Aracan, Bankok.
China, - - - - -	Pekin, Nankin, Canton.
Tibet, - - - - -	Lassa.
Chinese Tartary, - - - -	Cashgar, Yarkand, Maimatchin.
Independent Tartary, - -	Beklara, Samarcand.
Asiatic Russia, - - - - -	Tobolsk, Astracan.
Japan, - - - - -	Jeddo, Miaco, Nangasaki.

The CHIEF ISLANDS in Asia are, Java, Borneo, Sumatra, Ceylon, Cyprus, Celebes, Japan Islands, Philippine Islands, Moluccas, New Guinea, Australia or New Holland, and New Zealand.

The MOUNTAINS are the Himmaleh Mountains, the highest in the world, being 27,700 feet above the level of the sea—Caucasus, Ararat, Taurus, Lebanon; Sinai and Horeb.

The SEAS and GULFS are the Red Sea, Arabian Sea, Persian Gulf, Bay of Bengal, Chinese Sea, Gulfs of Siam and Tonquin, Yellow Sea, Sea of Japan, Sea of Ochotsk, Sea of Kamtschatka, Caspian Sea, and Sea of Aral.

STRAITS.—Babelmandel, Ormus, Malacca, Sunda, Macassar, Behring.

CAPIES.—Severo, Baba, Comorin, Negrais, Romania, Cambodia Lopatka, and East Cape.

RIVERS.—Oby, Yenisei, Lena, Amur, Hoang-ho, Yang-tse-kiang, Maykaung, Irrawady, Ganges, Brahmapootra, Indus, Eunbrates Ti gris, Oxus, Jaxartes.

LAKES.—Baikal, Balkash or Palkati

AFRICA,

Has always been in a state of barbarism, if we except Egypt and Carthage. It is bounded N. by the Mediterranean; W. by the Atlantic; S. by the Southern Ocean; and E. by the Isthmus of Suez, the Red Sea, and the Indian Ocean. The superficial area has been estimated at 11,000,000 square miles; and its population at 70 millions.

The following are the principal African nations:—

Countries.	Capitals.	Countries.	Capitals.

and the Cape of Good Hope, on the southern point of Africa.

ISLANDS.—In the Atlantic are the Azores or Western Isles, the Madeiras, the Canaries, and the Cape Verd Isles. In the Gulf of Guinea are St. Thomas, Anabon, Prince's Isle, and Fernando Po; and more distant are St. Matthew, Ascension, and St. Helena. To the east of Africa are Madagascar, Isle of France, Bourbon, the Comora Isle, Almirante and Mahe Isles; and Zocetra and Babelmandel, near the Red Sea.

MOUNTAINS.—Atlas to the north-east of Africa, which is the highest, being 11,980 feet above the level of the Sea;—the Mountains of the Moon in Ethiopia, and the Mountains of Sierre Leone.

GULFS, &c.—Gulf of Guinea; Table and Saldana Bays, Channel of the Mozambique.

CAVES.—Bon, Spartel, Cantin, Geer, Nun, Bojador, Blanco, Verde, Roxo, Mesurado, Palmas, Lopez, Formosa, Negro, Voltas, Good Hope, Agulhas, Corrientes, Delgado, Guardafui.

RIVERS.—The Nile, Niger, Senegal, Gambia, Rio Grande, Congo or Zaire, Coanza, Orange, Zambezi.

LAKES.—Tchad, Dembea, and Maravi.

AMERICA,

Is bounded N. by the Northern Ocean; W. by the Pacific Ocean; S. by the Southern Ocean; and E. by the Atlantic Ocean. The superficial area has been estimated at 15,000,000 square miles, and its population at 40 millions. It was discovered by Columbus, a Genoese, in the year 1492. This continent is divided by the Isthmus of Panama into two great parts, namely, North and South America.

NORTH AMERICA,

Is bounded N. by the Northern Ocean; W. by the Pacific Ocean; S. by the Gulf of Mexico and the Pacific Ocean; and E. by the Atlantic Ocean. It extends from $72^{\circ} 30'$ to 74° N. lat. and from $55^{\circ} 30'$ to 168° W. long., being in length from N. to S. 4500 miles, and in breadth, from the E. of Nova Scotia to the mouth of the Columbia River, nearly 3000 miles. The superficial area has been estimated at 8,000,000 square miles, and its population at 27 millions.

The divisions of North America, are, 1st. Russian Territory, 2. British America; 3. United States; 4. Mexico and Guatimala; 5. West India Islands; 6. Greenland.

Its ISLANDS, beside the West Indies, are Newfoundland, Cape Breton, Prince Edward, Bermudas, Aleutian Islands, Queen Charlotte's Isles, Vancouver Island, North Georgian Islands, Cockburn Island, Southampton Island.

LAKES.—Superior, Michigan, Huron, Erie, Ontario, Great Bear Lake, Great Slave Lake, Athabasca, Winnipeg, Mistassin, Champlain, Nicaragua.

RIVERS.—Mississippi, Missouri, Ohio, St. Lawrence, Hudson, Arkansas, Red River, Rio, Colorado, Rio del Norte, Columbia, Mackenzie.

BAYS, GULFS, and STRAITS.—Baffin's Bay, Davis' Straits, Prince Regent's Inlet, Coronation Gulf, Hudson's Bay, James' Bay, Straits of Belleisle, Gulf of St. Lawrence, Bay of Fundy, Chesapeake Bay, Gulf of Mexico, Florida Channel, Bay of Campeachy, Bay of Honduras, Gulf of California; Nootka Sound, Barrow's Strait, Strait of the Fury and Hecla.

CAVES.—Farewell, Chidley, Charles, Sable, Ced, Hatteras, Tanha, St. Lucas, Prince of Wales, Icy Cape.

MOUNTAINS.—Appalachian or Alleghany Mountains, Rocky Mountains, Mount St. Elias, Mount Fair-weather, the Mountains of Mexico.

THE RUSSIAN TERRITORY,

Consists of the extreme north western region of America, and a narrow tract of coast extending to 55° N. lat.—It is bounded N. by the Northern Ocean ; W. and S. by the North Pacific ; and E. by British America. Population 50,000.

BRITISH AMERICA.

Is bounded N. by Baffin's Bay and the Arctic Ocean, W. by the Russian Territory. S. by the United States ; and E. by the Atlantic Ocean. It is estimated to contain 2,350,000 square miles, and the population is about 2 millions.

MEXICO AND GUATIMALA.

Are bounded N. by the United States and the Gulf of Mexico; W. and S. by the Pacific Ocean; and E. by the United States, the Gulf of Mexico, and the Caribbean Sea. Mexico contains 1,640,000 square miles, and Guatimala 184,000. Population of Mexico 7,500 000,—of Guatimala, 1,650,000.

THE WEST INDIA ISLANDS,

Are situate in the Atlantic Ocean. between N. and S. America. They contain about 72,500 square miles, and a population of 2,000,000, of whom only 400,000 are whites.

These Islands are called the West Indies, from the following circumstance:—Christopher Columbus, the discoverer of America, proposed to sail to the East Indies by a western course; but instead of reaching Asia, as he intended, he found America: still he was persuaded that those Islands were the western part of India; and before a sufficient number of voyages could be accomplished to convince him of his error, he died. From this mistaken notion of his, the islands acquired the name of West Indies.

GREENLAND,

Is an extensive region which lies between Baffin's Bay and the Northern Ocean; from Cape Farewell, in lat. 60° it stretches northward indefinitely towards the Pole.

SOUTH AMERICA,

Is bounded N. by the Isthmus of Panama and the Caribbean Sea; W. by the Pacific Ocean; S. by the Southern Ocean; and E. by the Atlantic. The superficial area has been estimated at 7,000,000 square miles, and its population at 13,000,000.

CONCLUDING OBSERVATIONS.

The Earth in shape resembles an orange, being nearly round. It is more than twenty-four thousand miles round, and eight thousand through; and is ninety-five millions of miles from the sun.

The Equator is a great circle, which divides the earth into two equal parts, at an equal distance from each pole; and it is so called, because, when the sun is in this circle, the days and nights are equal to all the inhabitants of the earth.

The poles are two points of the earth opposite to each other, the one called north, and the other south. These points are only imaginary, as are also the circles. All parts of the earth, with respect to their situations, are either to the north or south of the equator; and the distance of places is counted from it towards the north or south pole. The poles are ninety degrees from the equator; half a circle is 180 degrees; and a whole circle, whether great or small, is 360 degrees.

The tropics are two lesser circles, called Cancer and Capricorn. The tropic of Cancer is 23½ degrees north of the equator, and the tropic of Capricorn 23½ south of the equator.

The polar circles are two lesser circles, called Arctic and Antarctic; the arctic or north polar circle is $66\frac{1}{2}$ degrees from the equator, and the antarctic or south polar circle is the same distance south of the equator. The polar circles are $23\frac{1}{2}$ degrees from the poles.

The ecliptic is a great circle described by the sun in the space of a year. It surrounds the globe between the two tropics, and crosses the equator at two opposite points.

All lines drawn from one pole to the other are called meridians. When the sun comes to the meridian of a place, it is then noon or mid-day at that place. We may imagine as many meridians as we please, for every place has a meridian. The meridian or line drawn from north to south over Greenwich, in England, is called the first or fixed meridian.

There are two horizons; one called the sensible or visible, and the other the rational horizon. The sensible horizon is the boundary of our sight, being that circle where the sky and earth seem to meet. The rational horizon cuts the earth into two equal parts, and is parallel to the sensible horizon. The poles of the horizon are called Zenith and Nadir; the zenith point is that part directly over head; and the nadir is that point opposite to it under our feet.

A degree in a great circle contains 69 geographical or $69\frac{1}{2}$ English miles, but the admeasurement of a less circle varies according as it approaches towards the poles.

A mile in geography is called a minute. Fifteen degrees make an hour of time.

Places on the earth are distinguished by their situations, which are found by their latitude and longitude. The latitude of a place is its distance north or south of the equator. If it be on the north side of the equator, it is said to be in the north latitude; if on the south side, in south latitude. All places on the earth are either in north or south latitude, except at the equator where there is no latitude, because latitude begins there. The greatest latitude a place can have is 90 degrees, and there are only two places that have so much, which are the poles. Upon a map the latitude is found at the sides; if it increases upwards, it is north; if downwards, it is south.

Longitude is the distance of a place from the first meridian to the east or west. If it be on the east side, it is east longitude, &c. The greatest longitude a place can have is 180 degrees, which is one half of the circumference of the globe. Longitude is found upon a map at the top and bottom. The degrees of longitude are not equal, like those of latitude, but diminish in proportion as the meridians incline towards the poles. Hence, in 60 degrees of latitude, a degree of longitude is but half the quantity of a degree upon the equator, and so in proportion for the rest.

Zones are certain spaces that encompass the earth like a girdle, there are five in number, namely, one torrid, two temperate, and two frigid or frozen zones. The torrid zone includes all that part of the earth which is situated between the tropics. The temperate zones include all those parts of the earth which are situated between the tropics and polar circles. The frigid zones are situated between the polar circles, extending round each pole, and are called frigid or frozen, from the rays of the sun falling so very obliquely in those parts, which renders them excessively cold.

ENGLISH GRAMMAR.

GRAMMAR is the art of expressing our thoughts clearly and correctly, and is divided into four parts, namely, Orthography, Etymology, Syntax, and Prosody.

Orthography is the art of writing words with the proper and necessary letters.

Etymology treats of the properties and derivation of words.

Syntax teaches us to place our words properly together in sentences.

Prosody teaches us the art of accenting and pronouncing words with propriety.

Grammar is composed of letters, syllables, words, and sentences.

Of the parts of Speech.

There are in English nine sorts of words, namely, the Substantive, the Article, the Adjective, the Pronoun, the Verb, the Adverb, the Preposition, the Conjunction, and the Interjection.

Of the Article.

An article is a word used before substantives, to denote their signification; as a man, the man. There are two articles a (or an) and the; an is only used before a vowel, and a silent h; as an egg, an hour; if h be sounded, a only is to be used; as a hand, a heart. The is to be used before either vowels or consonants; as the egg, the hour, the boy, the girl.

A or an is called indefinite, because it does not determine what particular thing is meant; as a man, an hour; meaning any man, any hour.

The is called definite, as it ascertains what particular thing or things are meant; as there goes the man with the wood, meaning some particular man and wood alluded to, or that were spoken of before.

Of Substantives.

A substantive is the name of any thing that exists, or of which we have any notion; as, Kingston, man, goodness. A substantive may be known by prefixing the words "I speak of," and whatever word then completes the sense is a substantive, as, I speak of goodness, wisdom, gold.

Substantives are divided into proper and common. A proper name or substantive is that which is appropriated to an individual of a kind; as, James, Toronto, St. Lawrence. A substantive common is that which belongs to all of a kind; as, man, city, river.—To substantives belong gender, number and case.

Of Gender.

Gender is the distinction of sex. There are four genders; masculine, feminine, common, and neuter. The masculine gender denotes animals of the male kind; as, a horse, a bull. The feminine gender signifies animals of the female kind; as, a mare, a cow. Such words as include both genders are of the common gender; as, friend, parent. Words which denote things of neither sex are of the neuter gender, as, house, stone, happiness.

There are three methods of shewing the difference of sex. 1st. By different words; as, Boy, Girl, &c. 2. By different terminations; as, Governor, Governess, &c. 3. By a noun, pronoun, or adjective, being prefixed to the substantive; as, a man-servant, a maid-servant, &c. &c.

Number.

Number is the distinction of one from many. There are two numbers; the singular and plural. The singular speaks of one; as, a boy, a book. The plural speaks of more than one; as, boys, books. The plural number is generally formed by adding only s to the singular; but when the singular ends in t, ch, sh, or ss, it is necessary to add es, as box, boxes, &c. Words that end in f and fe form their plural by changing these terminations into ves; as, calf, calves, &c. The following words are exceptions, as they form their plural regularly by adding only s; namely, hoof, roof, gulf, dwarf, lascivious, handkerchief, relief. Substantives that end in y form their plural by changing the y into ies, if it be preceded by a consonant; as, fly, flies, key, keys. The words child, man, woman, ot, brother, form their plural by making the termination en; as, child, children; man, men, &c. Some words are used alike in both numbers; as, deer, sheep, swine, and we distinguish the singular from the plural in these words by putting the article a or the number one before the singular; as, a deer, one deer; a sheep, one sheep. Some words have no singular; as, ashes, logs, &c., and others no plural; as, wheat, gold, &c. Some are very irregularly formed; as goose, geese; tooth, teeth, &c. The following form the plural by the difference of their termination; as,

sing.		plu.	sing.		plu.
Basis,	- - -	Bases.	Erratum,	- -	Errata
Crisis,	- - -	Crises.	Genius,	- -	Genni.
Diæresis,	- - -	Diæreses.	Radius,	- -	Radii.
Emphasis,	- -	Emphases.	Stratum,	- -	Strata.

Of Case.

Case signifies the situation of a substantive. There are four cases; namely, the nominative, the genitive, the accusative, and the vocative. The nominative case represents the being or thing that acts, and comes before the verb; as in "James loves play" where James is the nominative case.

The genitive case implies property or possession, and has for its sign the preposition of; as, "the love of God," or it has an apostrophe, with the letter s coming after it; as, "God's love." The apostrophic s is omitted when the singular ends in ss; as, "for goodness' and righteousness' sake." When several names are coupled together in the genitive case, the apostrophic s is joined to the last only, and understood at the rest; as, "John, James, and Robert's house."

The accusative case generally follows a verb active, or a preposition; as, "I love James," "James is in school."—The vocative case is known by calling or speaking to; as, "James, come here." James is in the vocative case. The vocative case is perhaps necessary; because it is the case in which every person speaks. Every other connexion in which the substantive is placed, is formed by prepositions.

Parsing Exercise on the Article and Substantive.

An Apple.

The Apple.

Why is an called indefinite?

Because it does not determine or point out what particular apple; the meaning is any apple.

Why is the definite?

Because it defines or limits it to a particular one of the kind, signifying by the some apple referred to.

Why is Apple a substantive?

Because it is the name of a thing.

Why is a substantive common?

Because it expresses one of the whole kind; for apple is a name common to all apples.

Why is an in the neuter gender?

Because an is without life, or of neither sex.

Why is it in the nominative case?

Because it simply expresses the being or name of a thing.

Questions for Parsing.

Article.—What part of speech? What kind? Definite or indefinite? Why?

Substantive.—Common or proper? What gender? What number? What case? Why? Why is the apostrophic s omitted?

Of the Adjective.

An adjective is a word joined to a substantive, to express its quality; as, "a good boy;" "a bad pen."

Adjectives have three degrees of comparison; the positive, comparative, and superlative. The positive is the first state of the adjective.

as, good, wise, great. The comparative degree increases or diminishes the positive in signification; as, greater, smaller; and is formed by adding r or er. The superlative degree increases or diminishes the positive to the utmost; as, largest, smallest; and is formed by adding st or est. The comparative and superlative degrees are also formed by placing the adverbs more and most before the adjectives; as more pleasant, most pleasant. More and most are generally used before words of more than one syllable. Some adjectives of very common use are irregularly formed; as, positive good; comparative better; superlative best. All the adjectives have not the degrees of comparison, because their signification will not admit of them; as all, several, some, one, two, first, &c.

Adjectives sometimes stand by themselves, but then a substantive is always understood; as, "Do you ride the white or the black?" Here horse is understood to both. Thus the adjective signifies nothing by itself, and can convey no idea to the mind without a substantive, expressed or understood. By this an adjective may be readily distinguished.

Parsing Exercise on the Article, Adjective and Substantive.

A good boy.

Why is good an adjective?

Because it has no substance of its own, and is dependent on, and inherent in, the substantive boy, denoting a peculiar property which belongs to him.

Why is it in the positive degree?

Because it is the adjective simply expressed, without any comparison.

Pronouns.

A pronoun is a word used instead of a noun or substantive, to avoid the too frequent repetition of the same word; as, "the man is merry, he laughs, he sings." There are three kinds of pronouns; the personal, the relative, and the adjective. To pronouns belong number, person, gender, and case. Pronouns have two numbers, the singular and the plural, the same as substantives; as, I, thou, he, she, it; we, ye, they. Personal pronouns have three persons in each number, viz.

Singular.

I, is the first person.

Thou or you, the second person.

He, she, or it, the third person.

Plural

We, is the first person.

Ye or you, the second person.

They, the third person.

Pronouns have three genders, masculine, feminine, and neuter, but they have respect only to the third person singular, he, she, it. He, is masculine; she, is feminine; it, is neuter. There are three cases in pronouns; the nominative, the genitive, and the accusative; as, He is the nominative case; His is the genitive; and Him is the accusative.

Personal pronouns are thus declined:—

Person.	case.	singular.	plural.
First.	Nom.	I,	we,
	Gen	mine,	ours,
	Acc.	me.	us.
Second.	Nom.	thou,	you,
	Gen.	thine,	yours,
	Acc.	thee.	you.
Third, Mas.	Nom.	he,	they,
	Gen.	his,	theirs,
	Acc.	him.	them.
Third, Fem.	Nom.	she,	they,
	Gen.	hers,	theirs,
	Acc.	her.	their.
Third, Neuter.	Nom.	it,	they,
	Gen.	its,	theirs.

A relative pronoun is that which relates or answers to some preceding word or phrase, called the antecedent. The relative pronouns are, he, that, who and which; as, “the boy is good who attends to the advice of his parents.” The interrogative pronouns are who, what, and which, being those which are made use of in asking a question, as, “Who is there?” “What are you doing?” “Which is the book?”

The difference between the nature of a relative pronoun, and an interrogative is this, that the relative has reference to a subject which is antecedent, definite, and known; but the interrogative has reference to a subject which is subsequent, indefinite, and unknown, and which is expressed and ascertained in the answer. Who is used when we speak of persons only; as, “who will instruct me:” which when we speak of persons or things; as, “which is the boy?” That sometimes supplies the place of who and which; as, “he that acts wisely deserves praise;” and “the boy that is diligent is rewarded.” Who is of both numbers, and is thus declined:—

Nom. who. Gen. whose. Acc. whom.

Adjective pronouns partake of the nature of both pronoun and adjective, and are divided into four sorts; namely, the possessive, the distributive, the demonstrative, and the indefinite.

The possessive pronouns are, my, mine, thy, thine, his, her, hers, its, our ours, your, yours, their, theirs, and they are called possessive, because they relate to property or possession. My, thy, his, her, our, your and their, are joined to a substantive; as "my book," "your pen." Mine, thine, hers, ours, yours, and theirs, are used without a substantive, which is, however, understood though not expressed; as, "this book is mine," "this pen is thine."

The distributive pronouns are, each, every, either, neither; and are so called because they relate to person or things that make up a number, as taken separately and singly; as, "each of his companions;" "every person must account for himself." "I have not seen either of them;" "have you seen neither of my comrades?"

The demonstrative pronouns particularly point out the subject to which they relate; as, "this is real munificence, that is by no means so." This refers to the nearest person or thing, and that to the more distant; as, "this tree is higher than that." This indicates the latter or last mentioned; that the former or first mentioned; as, "an army, as well as a fleet, is necessary to the security of a state; this from attacks by sea, that from those by land." This makes these in the plural; and that makes those.

Indefinite pronouns are those which express their subjects in a general and indefinite manner; as, "some men are virtuous, others vicious." The following are of this kind; some, other, any, one, all, such, &c. Of these pronouns, one and other alone are varied; as, one, one's; other, other's.

Of Verbs.

A verb is a word which signifies to be, to do, or to suffer; as, I am, I rule, I am ruled. A verb may be known by its making sense with any of the personal pronouns, or by placing the word to before it; as, I write you play, they toil; or to write, to play, to toil. There are three sorts of verbs, the active or transitive, the neuter or intransitive, and the passive.

An active or transitive verb is so called, because the action passes to some object: as, "I love virtue." Here I is the agent, love the verb, and virtue the object.

A verb neuter or intransitive is that which may denote an action or not, but it has no effect upon any thing beyond the agent; as, I sit, I walk. A verb neuter may be known from a verb active by putting the pronoun it to the verb, and if it make sense, it is active, but otherwise neuter; for a verb neuter will not take a substantive after it.

A verb passive is that which expresses bearing or suffering, as it declares what is suffered by the nominative or person before it; and necessarily implies an agent or actor, either expressed or understood; as, "you are punished by John." Here John is the agent or actor, are punished the passive verb, so called because its nominative case you is the passive subject, or that which receives the action.

Verbs with regard to their inflection, are divided into regular, irregular, and defective. A regular verb forms its tenses and participles according to the usual modes. Irregular verbs are those which borrow their tenses and participles from other verbs; or form them contrary to the usual mode. Defective verbs are those which are only used in some of their moods and tenses; as, am, can, will, &c. An auxiliary verb is one that is put before another verb to denote the time, or signify the mood, or manner of a verb. They are do, be, have, shall, will, may, can, with their variations; and let and must which have no variation. To verbs belong number, person, mood, and tense

Of the Participle.

A participle is a certain form of the verb, and partakes of the nature both of the verb and the adjective. There are three participles; the present, which ends in ing; the perfect, which ends in ed; and the compound perfect; as, loving, loved, having loved.

Number and Person.

Verbs have two numbers. the singular and the plural; as, I write we write; and in each number three persons; as,

	singular.	plural.
First person - - - - -	I write,	We write,
Second Person - - - - -	Thou writest,	You write,
Third person - - - - -	He writes.	They write.

Of Moods.

Moods signify the various ways of expressing our intentions. There are five moods; the indicative, the imperative, the potential, the subjunctive, and the infinitive.

The indicative mood simply indicates or declares a thing; as, "I learn, I do not learn," or else it asks a question; as, "dost thou learn? dost thou not learn?"

The imperative mood commands, exhorts, entreats, or forbids; as "Fear God; honour the King; love your neighbour as yourself."

The potential mood expresses a thing as possible, and implies liberty, power, will, or obligation; as, "I may love, it may rain, I can ride, he should learn."

The subjunctive mood implies a condition, will, or supposition; and commonly depends upon another verb, and is also preceded by a conjunction, expressed or understood; as, "I will go, though you elude me." "Were he good, he would be happy;" that is, "if he were good," &c.

The infinitive mood expresses a thing in a general, and indeterminate manner, without any distinction of number or person; as, "to act, to speak, to be feared." This mood is known by the preposition to coming before the verb; as, "to love."

Of Tense.

Tense signifies the distinction of time, which consists of six variations; the present, the imperfect, the perfect, the pluperfect, and the first and second future.

The present tense represents an action or event as passing at the time when it is mentioned; as, "I write, I do write, or I am writing." Do, am, with their inflections, are the signs of this tense.

The imperfect tense represents an action as passed indeterminately, or as remaining unfinished at a certain time past; as, "I loved her for the sweetness of her mind." "She was playing on the piano when I saw her." The signs are did and was, with their inflections.

The perfect tense not only refers to what is passed, but also has an allusion to the present time; as, "I have learned my lesson;" "I have learned the lesson that was recommended to me."

The pluperfect tense represents a thing not only completely finished, but also as finished prior to some other time specified in the sentence; as, "I had learned my lesson before you came in." Its signs are had and had been, with their inflections.

The first future tense represents the action as yet to come, definitely or indefinitely, that is, with or without respect to the precise time; as, "the sun will rise to-morrow at five o'clock," definitely; "the sun will rise to-morrow," indefinitely. This tense is known by the signs shall or will, or shall be, or will be.

The second future represents the action to be fully accomplished at or before the time of another future action or event; as, "I shall have finished my writing at or before twelve o'clock." Shall have and shall have been, are the signs of this tense.

Conjugation.

The conjugation of a verb is the method of varying it through all the persons, numbers, moods and tenses. The variation of the active verb is called the active voice; that of the passive verb, the passive voice.

The auxiliary and active verb to have is conjugated in the following manner:—

TO HAVE.

Of the Conjugation of Regular Verbs.

ACTIVE.

Verbs active are called regular, when they form their imperfect tense of the indicative mood, and their perfect participle, by adding to the verb ed or d, only when the verb ends in e; as,

Present.	Imperfect.	Perf. Part.
I learn,	I learned,	Learned
I love,	I loved,	Loved

A regular verb active is conjugated in the following manner:—

Conjugation of the Regular Verbs.

PASSIVE.

Verbs passive are called regular, when they form their passive participle by the addition of d or ed, to the verb; as, from the verb "to love" is formed the passive, "I am loved."

NOTE.—The pupil should be taught to conjugate the passive verb "I am loved," &c. through all the moods and tenses.

Irregular Verbs.

Irregular verbs differ from the regular in the formation of their imperfect tense, and their perfect participle; as,

Present.			Imperfect.			Perfect or Pass. Part.
know,	-	-	knew,	-	-	known.

Irregular verbs are of various kinds. 1. Some have their present tense, imperfect tense, and passive participle the same; as,

Present.			Imperfect.			Perfect or Pass. Part.
cast,	-	-	cast,	-	-	cast.
cut,	-	-	cut,	-	-	cut.

2. Some have their imperfect tense and perfect participle the same; as,

Present.			Imperfect.			Perfect or Pass. Part.
send,	-	-	sent,	-	-	sent.

3. Some have their present tense, imperfect tense, and passive participle, all different; as,

Present.			Imperfect.			Perfect or Pass. Part.
give,	-	-	gave,	-	-	given.
do	-	-	did,	-	-	done.

9. I am sincere.
10. Thou art respected.

Questions.

Article, Substantive, Adjective, as before.

Pronoun.—What kind? Person? Gender? Number? Case? Why?

Verb.—What kind? Active, passive or neuter? Regular, irregular, or defective? Mood? Tense? Number? Person?—Why? If a participle, why? Active or passive?—From what verb derived?

I love him.

What part of speech is I? A pronoun.—Why? Because it is used instead of my own name.—What kind? Personal, because it relates to a person.—What case is I? The nominative.—Why? Because it comes before and governs the verb.—What part of speech is love? A verb.—How do you know it to be a verb? Because whatever word denotes being, doing or suffering, is a verb.—What kind? Active.—Why? Because it implies action, and takes an accusative after it. Is it transitive or intransitive? Transitive.—Why? Because the action passes over to some other person (or thing,) the subject of that action. Is love a regular or an irregular verb? A regular verb.—Why? Because its imperfect tense and perfect participle end in ed.—What mood? The indicative.—Why? Because it simply declares or affirms.—What tense? The present.—Why? Because it relates to the present moment.—What number? The singular.—Why? Because it speaks but of one.—What person? The first person.—Why? Because the person who speaks is always the first person; the person spoken to is the second person; and the person spoken of is the third.—What part of speech is him? A pronoun.—Of what sort? Personal.—Repeat the personal pronouns. I, thou, &c.—What person? Third person?—What gender? The masculine.—Why? Because it relates to the male kind.—What number? Singular; because it speaks but of one. What case? The accusative.—Why? Because it receives the action of the verb, and answers to the question whom? or what?—What voice, mood, tense, number, and person, is love? The active voice, indicative mood, present tense, singular number, and the first person.

Of Adverbs.

An adverb is a word joined to a verb, an adjective, and sometimes to another adverb, to modify their actions or qualities; as, “he reads well, a truly good man, he writes very correctly.”

Some adverbs have degrees of comparison like adjectives; as, soon, sooner, soonest; and those ending in ly are compared by more and most; as, bravely, more bravely, most bravely.

The adverbs most frequently used are those that relate to time, place, number, order, quality, certainty, contingency, negation, explaining, separation, joining together, indication, interrogation, excess, defect, preference, likeness or equality, unlikeness or inequality, abatement and exclusion.

Those of time are; now, to-day, yesterday, &c. Of place; where, here, there, &c. Of number; once, twice, &c. Of order, lastly, first,

&c. Of quality; well, ill, &c. Of certainty; truly, verily, &c. Of contingency; haply, perchance, &c. Of negation; not, not at all, &c. Of explaining; to wit, namely, &c. Of separation; apart, separately, &c. Of joining together; generally, together, &c. Of indication; lo, behold, &c. Of interrogation; why, wherefore, &c. Of excess; very, much, &c. Of defect; almost, little, &c. Of preference; rather, chiefly, &c. Of likeness; so, as, as if, &c. Of unlikeness; otherwise, else, &c. Of abatement; by degrees, scarcely, &c. Of exclusion; only, &c.

Prepositions.

Prepositions serve to connect words with one another, and to show their relation, situation, or the reference between them; as, "he went from Peterboro', through Port Hope, to Cobourg."

The following are the principal prepositions, namely, to, at, before, against, about, without, between, among, within, for, by, through, besides, except, after, since, until, behind, above, beyond, out, upon, ever, of, unto, on, from, with, in, into, &c. They are called prepositions, because they are generally placed before the words to which they refer; as, "The kingdom of heaven is prepared for the righteous."

Conjunctions.

A conjunction is used to connect sentences together, so as out of two to make but one sentence. It sometimes connects only words. There are two sorts of conjunctions, the copulative, and the dis-junctive.

The conjunction copulative serves to connect or to continue a sentence, by expressing an addition; as, "you and I are healthy, because we are temperate." The conjunction dis-junctive not only connects and continues the sentence, but also implies an opposition or difference of meaning; as, "Though I have often attempted to learn it, yet I cannot succeed."

The principal copulative conjunctions are, and, if, because, that, both, for, therefore, then, since, wherefore. The principal dis-junctive conjunctions are yet, notwithstanding, but, then, though, either, or, as, unless, neither, nor, lest, nevertheless.

That is sometimes a pronoun; for is sometimes a preposition; as, they, and since, are sometimes adverbs.

Corresponding conjunctions are such as answer to each other in the construction of a sentence; as, Though or although is answered by yet, or nevertheless. Whether and either are answered by or. Neither is answered by nor. As is answered by so. So is answered by as or that. For example—Although she is not young, yet she is handsome. Whether it were you or I. It was either this book or that. It was neither the one nor the other. It is as white as snow. As with the servant so with the master. It is so obvious that I need not mention it.

Interjections.

An interjection is a word denoting any sudden affection or emotion of the subj., as, "O, how delightful!" The principal interjections are, ah! alas! O! fie! hush! hail! behold!

Exercise in Parsing upon all the Parts of Speech.

Praise the Lord, O my soul! while I live will I sing praises unto my God, and while I have any being.

What part of speech is praise? A verb, for it denotes something to be done.—What mood is the verb in? The imperative, because it exhorts or commands.—What person? The second person singular, praise thou, or do thou praise.—What part of speech is the? A definite article.—Why is it definite? Because it points out a particular object—the adorable Creator.—What part of speech is Lord? Lord is here taken for the proper name of our great Creator and Preserver; it is of the singular number, because it speaks but of one; accusative case.—Why is it the accusative case? Because it follows the active verb praise, and answers to the word whom or what.—What part of speech is O? An interjection.—Why is it an interjection? Because it is inserted to express a sudden passion or emotion of the mind.—What part of speech is my? A possessive pronoun.—Why is it called possessive? Because it implies possession or property.—What part of speech is soul? A substantive common, of the second person, singular number, and the vocative case.—Why is it a substantive common? Because it belongs to all of a kind, for the vital or active principle of all mankind is called the soul.—How is it known to be in the vocative case? Because it is called or spoken to; hence it is also known to be in the second person, that is, do thou praise, or raise up all thy affections to magnify his goodness.—What part of speech is while? An adverb.—Of what sort? Of time, and is equivalent to all the time.—What part of speech is I? A pronoun personal, nominative case to live, first person (speaking of himself) singular number.—What part of speech is live? A verb neuter.—How do you know it to be a verb neuter? Because it merely expresses being, meaning, As long as I exist will I praise the Lord.—What mood? Indicative mood which affirms; first person, singular number, present tense.—Will I sing, or I will sing? I, as before; will auxiliary verb, sign of the future tense; will sing a compound verb, first future tense, indicative mood; active.—What part of speech is praises? A substantive common, neuter gender, plural number, accusative case, because it comes after the active verb sing.—What part of speech is unto? A preposition, shewing the relation of the two nouns, praises and God.—What case has a preposition after it? The accusative case. My? As before.—What part of speech is God? A substantive, (the same as Lord), in the accusative case, being preceded by a preposition.—What part of speech is and? A copulative conjunction, because it joins. While I? The same as before.—What part of speech is have? A verb active; indicative mood, present tense, singular number. It is generally used as an auxiliary verb, but here it is a principal.—What part of speech is any? An adjective; one of those which do not admit of comparison.

Why is it an adjective? Because it modifies the noun, denoting a particular property belonging to it; moreover, as it has no substance of its own, it is dependent on, and inherent in the noun, and will not stand without it, either expressed or understood.—What part of speech is being? A substantive abstract, signifying existence, neuter gender, singular number, accusative case.—How do you know it is in the accusative case? Because it follows have, and answers to the question whom or what; as, while I have—what? Any being or existence.

RULES IN SYNTAX.

1. Every nominative case, except the case absolute, or when an address is made to a person, belongs to some verb expressed or understood.

2. When a nominative case neither refers to a verb, nor is used in addressing, it is called absolute; as, the door being open, I entered.

3. The accusative case is governed either by a preposition or by verbs and participles used transitively; as, “with me; he hears me, loving me.”

4. The possessive case denotes the person or object of which some quality or possession is asserted; as, “John’s industry, Richard’s book;” industry is the quality of John, and book is the property of Richard.

5. The possession or quality is sometimes understood; as, “I called at the bookseller’s,” the possession shop being understood.

6. When possessives are connected by conjunctions, the apostrophic ’s is annexed to the last only; as, “David and Jonathan’s friendship.” But when any words intervene, the ’s is annexed to every possessive; as, “He had the surgeon’s as well as doctor’s advice.”

7. When a clause of a sentence, beginning with a participle, is used to express one idea or circumstance, the noun, on which the circumstance depends, is put in the possessive case; as, “What is the reason of William’s dismissing his servant so hastily?”

8. When two nouns come together, signifying the same person or thing, the latter is in the same case as the former, by apposition; as, “Solomon the son of David, was king of Israel.” Solomon, son, and king signify the same person, and are therefore in the same case.

9. Every adjective, and every adjective pronoun, belongs to a substantive, expressed, or understood; as, “few are happy,” that is “persons;” “the green,” that is, “colour;” “on the contrary,” that is, “side.”

10. The pronoun adjectives, which have a plural form, must agree in number with their nouns; as, this book, these books; that sort, those sorts; another road, other roads.

11. Adjectives must not be applied as adverbs; as “miserable poor,” instead of “miserably poor.”

12. Double comparatives and superlatives should be avoided; as, “worser conduct; the most straitest sect.”

13. Adjectives that admit neither increase nor decrease of signification, cannot be compared; as, right, true, universal, perfect, chief, circular, &c.

14. Personal pronouns have the same construction as the nouns for which they stand.

15. Personal pronouns are not employed in the same part of a sentence as the noun which they represent; as, the king he is just.

16. The personal pronouns must not be used for these and those; as, "give me them books;" instead of "those books."

17. The genitive its is improperly used for it is; as, "its my book;" instead of "it is my book."

18. The neuter pronoun it is applied to nouns and pronouns, whatever may be their gender, or number; as, "it is he, it is she, it is they, it is the books."

19. Each, every, either, agree with nouns, pronouns, and verbs of the singular number; each follows his own pursuit; every tree is known by its fruit.

20. Either is used improperly instead of each; "the King of England, and the King of France, sat either of them on his throne."

21. When two persons or things are spoken of in a sentence, and there is occasion to mention them again, that is used in reference to the former, and this in reference to the latter. "I prefer summer to winter; that is warm, this is cold."

22. Every relative relates to an antecedent expressed or understood, with which the relative must agree in person, gender, and number; I who speak, thou who lovest, the dogs which bark.

23. If a nominative does not come between the relative and verb, the relative shall be the nominative to the verb; as, he who speaks little is wise.

24. If a nominative come between the relative and verb, the relative is governed by some word in its own member of the sentence; as, God, whom we worship, by whose gift we live, and by whom all things are made, is eternal.

25. When the relative is preceded by two nominative cases of different persons, the relative must agree with the latter; I am the person who writes to you.

26. As is often used as a relative; "they are such comforts as we can obtain; the conditions are as follow." (In the first example, as is the objective after obtain; in the second, as is the plural nominative to follow.)

27. In grave writing, the relative should not be omitted; as, the God whom we worship; not the God we worship.

28. The pronoun that is used in preference to who or which. 1. After an adjective in the superlative degree, as, "it was the best that I could procure." 2. After the word same, as, "the same that I saw yesterday." 3. After who used in a question, as, "who that has any sense of duty would act thus?" 4. When persons make but part of the antecedent, as, "the men and things that he has seen."

29. When the relative who follows than, the relative must be in the objective case; as, "Alfred, than whom a greater king never reigned."
30. A verb agrees with its nominative in number and person; as, "I pursue, he plays, the trees fall." The nominative is known by putting the question who? or what? with the verb; as, "John reads." Who reads? John.
31. Nouns are of the third person when spoken of, and the second when spoken to.
32. The infinitive mood, or a part of a sentence, is often put as the nominative to the verb; as, to walk is pleasant, to view the charms of nature is pleasant.
33. When two or more nominatives in the singular number are connected by the conjunction and, expressed or understood, the verbs, nouns and pronouns, which refer to them, must be in the plural number; as, Socrates and Plato were wise, they were eminent philosophers."
34. If the singular nominatives which are joined together by and, be of different persons, in making the plural pronoun agree with them in person, the second takes place of the third, and the first of both; as, "James, and thou, and I, are attached to our country." "Thou and he shared it between you."
35. When two or more nominative cases singular are connected by the conjunctions or, nor, either, neither, the nouns, pronouns, and verbs, which refer to the nominatives, must be in the singular number; as, "fear or jealousy prevails; neither power nor wealth avails."
36. When singular nominatives of different person or numbers are joined by or, either, nor, neither, the verb must agree in number with that nominative which is placed nearest to it; "he or his brothers were there; neither you nor I am concerned."
37. The infinitive mood is known by the sign to, and may depend upon verbs, participles, adjectives, or substantives; as, "I desire to learn, desiring to learn, desirous to learn, a desire to learn."
38. The sign to is omitted after bid, dare, need, make, see, hear, feel, let, and a few others; as, "I bade him do it; ye dare not do it; I saw him do it; I heard him say it; thou lettest him go."
39. The infinitive mood is often used independently of the rest of the sentence; as, "to confess the truth, I was in fault."
40. Transitive verbs govern the objective case; as, "I love him, God rules the world."
41. The auxiliary let governs the objective case; as, "let me go."
42. Participles take the nature of adjectives; "men professing to be wise, became fools;" professing agrees as an adjective with the noun men.
43. The participle is employed as a noun. "I am tired with walking, i. e. with the walk; his being wounded, i. e. his wound, was the cause of pain."
44. When the participle in ing has an article before it, it is followed by of; "by the observing of rules we avoid mistakes; this was a betraying of the trust."

45. Participles of a transitive signification govern an objective case; as, "I am tired with hearing him."

46. The participle may be used independently; as, "his conduct, generally speaking, is honourable."

47. The perfect participle of certain intransitive verbs, (chiefly such as signify motion or change of condition,) follow am or have; as, I am arisen; I have arisen; I am come; I have come.

48. The perfect participle must not be used instead of the imperfect tense; "he begun," for "he began;" "he run," for "he ran;" "he drunk" for "he drank."

49. The perfect participle, and not the imperfect tense of the verb, must always be used after the auxiliaries have and be; as, "I have begun," "It was written;" and not "I have began;" "It was wrote."

50. The objective case, after intransitive verbs, is usually governed by a preposition, or some other word understood; he resided (during or for) many years.

51. Intransitive verbs must not be used transitively; as, I repent me, for I repent; transitive verbs must not be used intransitively; as, "I will premise with this, for I will premise this."

52. Verbs intransitive admit an objective case of the same or similar signification; as, "to run a race, to dream a dream."

53. The verb to be is followed by the same case that preceded it; as, "he is a fool; I took him to be a scholar."

54. Adverbs must not be used as adjectives; as, "the tutor addressed him in terms suitably to his offence;" suitable.

55. Two negatives in English are equivalent to an affirmative; as, "nor did they not perceive him;" that is, "they did perceive him."

56. Prepositions govern the objective case; as, "I have heard a good character of her;" "we may be good and happy without riches."

57. The preposition should not be separated from the relative which it governs; as, "whom wilt thou give it to?" instead of, "to whom wilt thou give it?"

58. It is inelegant to separate the preposition from its noun, in order to connect different prepositions with the same noun; as, "he took it from, and then returned it to me."

59. Prepositions are often understood; as, "give (to) me the book, get (for) me some paper; he was banished (from) England; a wall (of) two feet thick; I envied him (for) his feelings; he asked (of) me my opinion."

60. Conjunctions join the same tenses, numbers, and persons of verbs, and the same cases of nouns and pronouns; as, "a diligent boy will study and learn; he and I were school-fellows."

61. When the conjunction implies something contingent or doubtful, it is followed by the subjunctive mood; as, "he will not be pardoned unless he repent."

62. The interjections O! Oh! Ah! require the objective case of a pronoun in the first person after them; as, "O me! Oh me! Ah me!" but the nominative case in the second person; as, "O thou persecutor! Oh ye hypocrites!"

A MORNING HYMN.

(Tune, "Derby," in the "Sacred Harmony," by the Author of this book.)

AWAKE, my soul, and with the sun
Thy daily stage of duty run;
Shake off dull sloth, and early rise,
To pay thy morning sacrifice.

Redeem the mis-spent moments past,
And live this day as if the last;
Thy talents to improve take care;
For the great day thyself prepare.

Let all thy converse be sincere,
Thy conscience as the noon-day clear;
For God's all-seeing eye surveys
Thy secret thoughts, thy words and ways.

Wake, and lift up thyself, my heart,
And with the angels take thy part;
Who all night long unwearied sing
High glory to th' eternal King.

Praise God, from whom all blessings flow,
Praise him, all creatures here below;
Praise him above, ye heavenly host;
Praise Father, Son, and Holy Ghost.

AN EVENING HYMN.

(Tune, "Evening Hymn.")

GLORY to thee, my God, this night
For all the blessings of the light:
Keep me, O keep me, King of kings,
Beneath thine own Almighty wings!

Forgive me, Lord, for thy dear Son,
The ill that I this day have done:
That, with the world, myself, and thee
I, ere I sleep, at peace may be.

Teach me to live, that I may dread
The grave as little as my bed;
Teach me to die, that so I may Rise glorious at the awful day.

O let my soul on thee repose!
 And may sweet sleep mine eyelids close,
 Sleep that shall me more vigorous make,
 To serve my God when I awake.

If in the night I sleepless lie,
 My soul with heavenly thoughts supply;
 Let no ill dreams disturb my rest,
 No powers of darkness me molest.

FAMILY RELIGION.

(Tune, "Portugal," or "Port Hope.")

FATHER of all, thy care we bless,
 Which crowns our families with peace:
 From thee they spring: and by thy hand
 They are, and shall be still, sustained.

To God, most worthy to be prais'd,
 Be our domestic altars rais'd:
 Who, Lord of heaven, yet deigns to come,
 And sanctify our humblest home.

To thee, may each united house,
 Morning and night present its vows;
 Our servants there, and rising race,
 Be taught thy precepts, and thy grace.

So may each future age proclaim
 The honours of thy glorious name:
 And each succeeding race remove,
 To join the family above.

PRAYERS FOR EVERY DAY IN THE WEEK.

Sunday Morning.

ALMIGHTY and eternal God, we desire to praise thy holy name, for graciously raising us up, in soundness of body and mind, to see the light of this day.

We bless thee in behalf of all thy creatures; for the eyes of all look unto thee, and thou givest them their meat in due season. But above all, we acknowledge thy inestimable benefits bestowed upon mankind in Christ Jesus.

We are ashamed, O Lord, to think that ever we have disobeyed thee who hast redeemed us with the precious blood of thine own Son. O may we agree with thy will in the time to come; and may all the powers of our souls and bodies be dedicated to thy service. Help us, we beseech thee, to love our neighbour as ourselves; and as we would that others should do to us, do even so to them; to live peaceably, as much as lieth in us, with all men; to put on the ornament of a meek and quiet spirit; and when we suffer as Christians, not to be ashamed, but to glorify thee our God in this behalf.

And accept, good Lord, of all the praises of all thy people that shall meet together this day. O that thy ways were known upon all the earth, thy saving health among all nations. Let our gracious Queen, especially, be a faithful subject of the Lord Jesus, the King of kings, and Lord of lords; and may her Representatives, who are placed in authority over us, be influenced and directed by wisdom from above.

O that thy priests may be clothed with righteousness, and thy saints rejoice and sing; that all who are in distress may trust in thee, the health of their countenance and their God. O Lord, hear us, and make thy face to shine upon thy servants, that we may enter into thy gates with thanksgiving, and into thy courts with praise; that we may be thankful unto thee, and bless thy name. All we ask is for the sake of Jesus Christ, our only Saviour and Redeemer.

Our Father, who art in heaven. Hallowed be thy name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth, as it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive them that trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation: but deliver us from evil, for thine is the kingdom, the power and glory, for ever and ever. Amen.

Sunday Evening.

O LORD our God, thou art infinitely good, and thou hast shewed us what is good. Thou sendest out thy light and thy truth, that they may guide us, and makest plain thy way before our face. Thou givest us many opportunities and advantages, to quicken and further us in thy service.—We have line upon line, and precept upon precept; thy messengers early and late to open and apply thy word, to call and warn, to direct and exhort us, with all long-suffering. But how little have we improved all the precious talents which thou hast put into our hands. O Lord thou mightest justly take away the Gospel of thy kingdom from us, and give it unto another people, who would bring forth the fruits thereof. Because thou hast called, and we refused, thou hast stretched forth thy hands and we have not regarded, thou mightest leave us to our own perverseness and impenitence, till our iniquities become our ruin.

But, O Lord God, enter not thus into judgment with thy servants.

Pardon all our contempt of thy word, and our not profiting thereby. And help us for the time to come better to improve the blessed opportunities set before us. As the rain descends from heaven and returns not thither, but waters the earth and maketh it fruitful; so let not thy word return unto thee void, but prosper in the work whereunto thou sendest it. O make it effectual to build us all up in the true fear and love of God, and in the right knowledge and faith of our Lord Jesus Christ.

In mercy pass by all which thy most pure and holy eyes have seen amiss in us this day. Forgive the iniquities of our holy things; overlook all our sins and failings, through our great Mediator and Redeemer, who ever lives at thy right hand to make intercession for us. And for Jesus Christ, and all which thou art pleased to give us together with him, not unto us, O Lord, but unto thy name be all the praise, and honour, and glory, humbly ascribed by us, and all thy Church, now and for evermore! Our Father, &c.

Monday Morning.

WE humble ourselves, O Lord of heaven and earth, before thy glorious Majesty. We acknowledge thy eternal power, wisdom, goodness and truth; and desire to render thee most unfeigned thanks, for all the benefits which thou pourest upon us, but, above all, for thine inestimable love, in the redemption of the world by our Lord Jesus Christ.

We implore thy tender mercies in the forgiveness of our sins, whereby we have offended either in thought, word, or deed. We desire to be truly sorry for all our misdoings, and utterly to renounce whatever is contrary to thy will.—And as thou dost inspire us with these desires, so accompany them always with thy grace, that we may every day give ourselves up to thy service.

And we desire, thou knowest, the good of all mankind, especially of all Christian people; that they may all walk worthy of the Gospel, and live together in unity and Christian love. For which end we pray that all Christian Kings, Princes, and Governors, may be wise, pious, just and merciful, endeavouring that all their subjects may lead peaceable lives in all godliness and honesty; and more particularly that our Sovereign, Queen Victoria, with Prince Albert, may be blessed with a religious, quiet, long, and prosperous reign; and that all in authority, under her, may seek, in their several stations, to right the oppressed, to comfort the afflicted, to provide for the poor and needy, and to relieve all those that are in misery. Bless all our friends, relations, and acquaintances, that we may all live in perfect love and peace together, and rejoice together at the great day of the Lord Jesus; in whose holy words we sum up all our wants.

Our Father, &c.

Monday Evening

ALMIGHTY and most merciful Father, in whom we live, move, and have our being; to whose tender compassions we owe our safety the day past, together with all the comforts of this life, and the hopes of that which is to come: we praise thee, O Lord, we bow ourselves before thee, acknowledging we have nothing but what we receive from thee.

Blessed be thy goodness for our health, for our food and raiment, for our peace and safety, for the love of our friends, for all our blessings in this life, and our desire to attain that life which is immortal.

Renew in us, we beseech thee, a lively image of thee, in all righteousness, purity, mercy, faithfulness, and truth.—O that Jesus, the hope of glory, may be formed in us, in all humility, meekness, patience, and a surrender of our souls and bodies to thy holy will; that every one of us may be able to say, the life I now live in the flesh, I live by faith in the Son of God, who loved me, and gave himself for me.

To thy blessing we commend all mankind, high and low, rich and poor that they may all faithfully serve thee, and contentedly enjoy whatever is needful for them. And especially, we beseech thee, that the course of this world may be so peaceably ordered by thy governance, that thy Church may joyfully serve thee in all godly quietness, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Our Father, &c.

Tuesday Morning.

O MOST great and mighty Lord, the possessor of heaven and earth, all the angels rejoice in blessing and praising thee, the Father of spirits, for thou hast created all things, and in wisdom hast thou made them all, and spread thy tender mercies over all thy works.

We acknowledge, with shame and sorrow of heart, that we deserve not the smallest of thy mercies, for we have often offended thee. But thou hast graciously declared thou wilt be found of them that seek thee, and that them that come to thee thou wilt in no wise cast out. O then, may we all come with penitent and believing hearts that we may receive large supplies of thy Holy Spirit to make us new creatures.

And O that all men may be duly awakened to a concern for spiritual and divine things. Stir up especially the minds of all Christian people to follow the truth as it is in Jesus, and exercise themselves to have a conscience void of offence towards God and towards man. Bless these Provinces, and endue our Sovereign with such excellent wisdom that we may see many good days under her government. O that true religion, justice, mercy, brotherly kindness, and all things else that are praiseworthy, may so flourish among us, that we may enjoy the blessings of peace and plenty, and there may be no complaining in our streets.

We comend to thee all our friends and neighbours, all the poor, the sick and the afflicted, and we beseech thy compassion for all who are strangers, and in distress. O God, whose never-failing providence ordereth all things, both in heaven and earth. keep them and us from all hurtful things, and give us such things as are profitable for us in time and eternity, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Our Father, &c.

Tuesday Evening.

ALMIGHTY and everlasting God, the Sovereign Lord of all creatures in heaven and earth, we acknowledge that our being, and all its comforts depend on thee the Fountain of all good. We have nothing but what is owing to thy free and bounteous love, O most blessed Creator, and to the riches of thy grace, O most blessed Redeemer.

We implore thy pardon for all that thou hast seen amiss in us, during the day that we are now concluding. We confess that we are exceedingly prone to leave undone the things which we ought to do, and to do the things which thou hast prohibited. O be merciful to us and bless us, and cause thy face to shine upon us that we may be saved.— Increase every good desire which we feel already in our hearts; let us always live as becomes thy creatures, and the disciples of Jesus Christ.

And the same mercies that we beg for ourselves, we desire for the rest of mankind. O that all who are seated on the throne may be tender-hearted, as the parents of their country; and all their subjects may be dutiful and obedient to them, as their children; that the Pastors of thy Church may feed their flocks with true wisdom and understanding, and the people all may submit unto them, and follow their godly counsels; that the rich may have compassion on the poor and miserable; and all such distressed people may bless the rich and rejoice in the prosperity of those that are above them. Give to husbands and wives, parents, and children, masters and servants, the grace to behave themselves so in their several relations, that they may adorn the doctrine of God our Saviour in all things, and receive of him a crown of glory.

Our Father, &c.

Wednesday Morning.

O GOD blessed for ever, we thank and praise thee for all thy benefits, for the comforts of this life, and our hope of everlasting salvation in the life to come. We desire to have a lively sense of thy love always possessing our hearts, that may still constrain us to love thee, to obey thee, to trust in thee, to be content with the portion thy love allot unto us, and to rejoice even in the midst of all the troubles of this life

Lord we confess with sorrow of heart, that we deserve not the least of all thy mercies. We are too apt to forget thee and all thy goodness; and though our necessities compel us to pray to thee, yet Lord we are too ready to forsake thee. Do thou grant us forgiveness, and the assistance of thy Holy Spirit, that we may cleave to thee in righteousness, in lowliness, and purity of heart.

Let thy mighty power enable us to do our duty towards thee and towards men, with care, diligence, and zeal, and perseverance to the end. Help us to be meek and gentle in our conversation, prudent and discreet in ordering our affairs, observant of thy fatherly providence in every thing that befalls us, thankful for thy benefits, patient under thy chastisements, and readily disposed for every good word and work.

Bless our gracious Sovereign, and her illustrious consort, with her counsellors and ministers, and her representatives in these provinces. Bless all employed in public business, whether spiritual or civil, that whatever they do may be for thy glory, and the public good. Be gracious to all who are near and dear to us, and keep us all in thy fear and love, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Our Father, &c.

Wednesday Evening.

O LORD, how manifold are thy works! in wisdom hast thou made them all. The day is thine, the night also is thine; thou hast prepared the light and the sun. We render thee thanks for all the benefits which thou hast bestowed on us, and the whole world.

We approach thee in the Saviour's name, and relying on the merits of his atoning blood, for of ourselves we are utterly unfit to appear in thy presence. We thank thee for providing a new and living way, whereby we can have access to thee.

And we humbly beseech thee to command thy blessing on us who are now bowed at the footstool of thy mercy seat. O that thou wouldst bless us indeed, and preserve us from evil. May we flourish as the corn, and grow as the vine,—may we be as trees planted by the rivers of water, which bring forth their fruit in due season. O let every sinful propensity be totally destroyed, and be graciously pleased to establish thy kingdom in our hearts.

Remember all those who have done good unto us, and reward them seven-fold into their bosom. Grant forgiveness and charity to all our enemies; and continue good will among all our neighbours. Support the sick with faith and patience; assist those who are leaving this world. Receive the souls thou hast redeemed with thy Son's precious blood and sanctified by the Holy Ghost; and give us all a glorious resurrection and eternal life. Our Father, &c.

Thursday Morning.

O LORD thou art the hope of all the ends of the earth.—Upon thee the eyes of all wait, for thou givest unto all life, and breath, and all things. Thou still watchest over us for good ; thou daily renewest to us our lives, and thy mercies ; and thou hast given us the assurance of thy word, that if we commit our affairs to thee, if we acknowledge thee in all our ways, thou wilt direct our paths.

Preserve us, we beseech thee, from all ignorance, hardness of heart, and contempt of thy word and commandments.—Save us from the delusions of the devil, or of our own evil hearts. Let us never fancy we shall get to heaven, while we have not entered on the path that will conduct us thither. O may we never lose sight of the declarations of thy holy word, that we must be born again—that old things must be done away and all things become new. Raise us, we beseech thee, from a death in sin to a life of righteousness, and enable us all to say from happy experience, that as far as the east is from the west, even so far hast thou removed our sins from us.

Thou hast laid help for us upon One that is mighty, that is able to save unto the uttermost all those that come unto God through him. Put thy spirit within us, causing us to walk in thy statutes, and to keep thy judgments, and do them.

O gracious Father, keep us, we pray thee, this day in thy fear and favour, and teach us, in all our thoughts, words, and works, to live to thy glory. If thou guide us not, we go astray ; if thou uphold us not, we fall. Let thy grace, O Lord Jesus, thy love, O heavenly Father, and thy comfortable fellowship, O blessed Spirit, be with us this day and for evermore. Our Father, &c.

Thursday Evening.

O LORD our God, thy glory is above all our thoughts, and thy mercy is over all thy works. We are still living monuments of thy mercy ; for thou hast not cut us off in our sins, but still givest us a good hope, and strong consolation through grace. Thou hast sent thy only Son into the world, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish in his sins, but have everlasting life. O Lord, we believe : help our unbelief ; and give us the true repentance toward God, and faith in our Lord Jesus Christ, that we may be in the number of those who do indeed repent, and believe to the saving of the soul. Being justified by faith, let us have peace with God, through our Lord Jesus Christ.

Thou knowest, O Lord, all our temptations, and the sin that doth so easily beset us. Thou knowest the devices of the enemy, and the deceitfulness of our own hearts. We pray thee, good Lord, that thou wilt arm us with the whole armour of God. Uphold us with thy free spirit, and watch over us for good evermore.

Let our supplications also ascend before thee for the whole race of mankind. Be gracious to this our land. O do thou rule all our rulers, counsel all our counsellors, teach all our teachers, and order all the public affairs to thy glory.

And now, O Father of mercies, be pleased to accept our evening sacrifice of praise and thanksgiving. O that thou wouldst imprint and preserve upon our hearts a lively sense of all thy kindness to us; that our souls may bless thee, and all that is within us may praise thy holy name. Our Father, &c.

Friday Morning.

O LORD God, merciful and gracious, long suffering and abundant in goodness and truth; thou keepest mercy for thousands; thou pardonest iniquity and transgression and sin. How excellent is thy loving kindness, O God! The children of men shall put their trust under the shadow of thy wings. And therefore do we still look up to that bountiful hand, from whence we have received all our good things. O Lord our God, be favourable unto us, as thou usest to be unto those that love thy holy name! O look not upon the sin of our nature, nor the sins of our hearts and lives, which are more than we can remember, and greater than we can express. It is of the Lord's mercies that we are not consumed—because thy compassions fail not.

O God, be merciful unto us miserable sinners, for his sake whom thou hast exalted to be a Prince and a Saviour, to give repentance unto thy people, and forgiveness of sins. Be merciful, O God, be merciful unto our souls, which have greatly sinned against thee. O heal our backslidings, renew us to repentance; establish our hearts in thy fear and love; and establish our goings in thy way, that our footsteps slip not.

And now that thou hast renewed our lives and thy mercies to us this morning, help us to renew our desires and resolutions and endeavours to live in obedience to thy holy will. O restrain us from the sins into which we are most prone to fall, and quicken us to the duties we are most averse to perform; and grant that we may think, and speak, and will, and do, the things becoming the children of our heavenly Father, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Our Father, &c.

Friday Evening.

O LORD, thou wast before all, thou art above all, and thy years shall not fail. Thou art the searcher of our hearts; thou knowest the dullness and hardness, the vanity and deceitfulness of them. We were born sinners, and so have we lived. We have added sin to sin; we have abused thy great and manifold mercies, tempted thy patience, and despised thy goodness; and justly mightest thou have cast us into outer darkness, where is wailing and gnashing of teeth.

But of thy loving kindnesses there is no number. Thou still callest us to return to thee ; and whosoever cometh to thee, thou wilt in no wise cast out. O meet us with thy heavenly grace, that we may be able to come to thee. Be thou graciously pleased to stretch forth thy hand, and loose the chains wherewith our souls are entangled. O free us from every weight of sin, and from every yoke of bondage. O help us to feel and bewail, and forsake all our sins : and let us never want the comfortable assurance of thy forgiveness of them, thy acceptance of us, and thy love to us, in the blessed Son of thy eternal love.

Continue thy mercies to this sinful land : teach us at length to know thy will concerning us ; and O turn thou all our hearts unto thee as the heart of one man. Bless the Queen, and Prince Albert ; and grant unto all Magistrates, and Ministers of thy word, every needful blessing.

Be thou a father to the fatherless, a husband to the widow, a refuge to the oppressed, a physician to the sick, a helper of the friendless, and a God of consolation to the sorrowful and distressed, and to thy name, O blessed God of our salvation, be all praise, glory and honour ascribed now and for evermore. Our Father, &c.

Saturday Morning.

WE present ourselves before thee, O Lord our God, to pay our tribute of prayer and thanksgiving ; desiring thee mercifully to accept us and our services through Jesus Christ. In his great name we come to beg thy pardon and peace, the increase of thy grace, and the tokens of thy love ; for we are not worthy of the least of thy mercies ; but worthy is the Lamb that was slain to take away the sin of the world.

O teach us to know thee our God, and Jesus Christ whom thou hast sent ; and enable us to do thy will on earth, as it is done in heaven.

Give us to fear thee and to love thee, to trust and delight in thee, and to cleave to thee with full purpose of heart, that no temptations may draw us or drive us from thee ; but that all thy dispensations to us, and thy dealings with us, may be the messengers of thy love to our souls. Quicken us, O Lord, in our dullness, that we may not serve thee in a lifeless and listless manner ; but may abound in thy work, and be fervent in spirit, serving the Lord. And make us faithful in all our intercourse with our neighbour, that we may be ready to do good and bear evil, that we may be just and kind, merciful and meek, peaceable and patient, sober and temperate, humble and self-denying, inoffensive and useful in the world ; that so glorifying thee here, we may be glorified with thee in thy heavenly kingdom. Our Father &c.

Saturday Evening.

O THOU high and holy One, that inhabitest eternity, thou art to be feared and loved by all thy servants. All thy works praise thee, O God ; and we especially give thanks unto thee, for thy marvellous love in Christ Jesus, by whom thou hast reconciled the world to thyself.

Thou hast given us exceeding great and precious promises; thou hast sealed them with his blood, thou hast confirmed them by his resurrection and ascension, and the coming of the Holy Ghost.

O God, purify our hearts, that we may entirely love thee, and rejoice in being beloved of thee; that we may confide in thee, and be filled with constant devotion toward thee.—Let us use this world as not abusing it. Keep us from being wise in our own conceit. Let our moderation be known to all men. Make us kindly affectioned one to another; to delight in doing good; to show all meekness to all men; to render to all their dues: tribute to whom tribute is due; custom to whom custom, fear to whom fear, honour to whom honour, and to owe no man any thing, but to love one another. And help us to pray always and not faint: in every thing to give thanks, and offer up the sacrifice of praise continually; to rejoice in hope of thy glory; to possess our souls in patience, and to learn in whatsoever state we are, therewith to be content.

Bless these provinces, and give us grace at length to bring forth fruits meet for repentance. O Lord, save the Queen, and establish her throne in righteousness. Bless all who are in authority under her, and over us; may they be a terror to evil doers and a praise to them that do well. And all we ask is through the merits of Jesus Christ our Lord. Our Father, &c.

A Prayer on entering Church.

Let the words of my mouth, and the meditations of my heart, be acceptable in thy sight, O Lord! my strength, and my Redeemer Amen.

Before leaving Church.

O Lord, may the words I have heard be treasured up in my memory, and duly influence my practice, through thy Son our Saviour Jesus Christ. Amen.

Grace before Meat.

Blessed be thy name, O Lord, for this and every instance of thy goodness. Sanctify us to thy service, through Jesus Christ. Amen.

Grace after Meat.

For these, and all his other mercies, God's holy name be blessed and praised, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

General directions in order to the leading a Christian life.

Begin every day with God, and go not out of your chamber before you have performed your bounden duty of prayer and praise.

Walk all the day long in the fear of God. Wherever you are, or whatever you are doing, remember that the eye of God is upon you.

Shun idleness, in whatever station of life you are, and know, that it is the part of a wise man to have always something to do.

Avoid the common but odious vices of slander and talebearing; strive to live in peace with all men, and to cultivate a meek, courteous, and benevolent disposition.

Speak the truth on all occasions without dissimulation; be sincere and upright in all your conversation; for he only is a Christian indeed, in whom there is no guile.

In all your concerns with others, be they little or much, let this be the constant rule and measure of your actions, namely, to do unto others as you would they should do unto you.

In every time of trouble think upon God and his gracious promise, that all things shall work together for good, to them that love and serve him.

If you are a householder, call your family together, at least every evening, to join in supplications to Him, in whom they live and move, and have their being.

If you are a child or servant, endeavour to be always within at the time of prayer.

Never lay yourself down to rest before you have prayed in private, and recommended yourself to the Divine protection.

Always say grace before and after meals. Whether you eat or drink, or whatever you do, do all to the glory of God.

Directions for the Lord's Day.

Be sure to spend the Lord's Day well—take care to avoid the sinful practice of fishing or fowling, or otherwise transgressing the divine command, to “Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy.”

Make your children and servants go with you to your place of worship; and take care not to come late to church; be always there, if possible, before divine service begins.—Be sure not to loiter about the church door.

Avoid the too frequent custom of sitting at the time of prayer—this evinces the greatest want of consideration—always kneel or stand. Do not give way to sleep or wandering thoughts.

After divine service, spend the remainder of the day in reading religious books, and recollecting what you have heard at church.
